BEER AND WINE SENATE ACTION SET FOR TODAY

Robinson Predicts Vote by Night on Revamped D. C. Measure.

DRUG STORES BARRED AS RETAIL HANDLERS

Tydings Promised Every Aid for Early Passage of Program.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The 3.2 per cent District beer and wine bill, rewritten many times to span the narrowing gap between wets and reformists, will be called up for Senate action at noon today.

The local ale measure, reported yesterday after a week's careful committee scrutiny, remained the only business on the Senate's calendar when the chamber recessed late yesterday.

Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson said the Senate will take it up at once and every opportunity given for passage before nightfall.

Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, chairman of the beer subcommittee which rewrote the bill, saw no serious obstacles in the path of enactment.

Drug Stores Barred.

A number of attempts will be made to amend the measure, with Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, sponsoring an amendment to permit drug stores with restaurant facilities to serve the beverage. Drug stores are ruled out under the present language.

The Senate in scheduling the local beer debate for today sacrificed a three-day recess it otherwise would have taken as reward for its speed in disposing of pending national matters. The House, its dockets clear for the time being, adjourned until Monday.

Even if the Senate passes the beer bill today, it can not become law until next week. The measure must go back to the House for approval of extensive Senate changes. In all probability, a conference will be asked by the lower chamber, causing further delay.

To License Solicitors.

Several minor changes appeared in the bill reported to the Senate yesterday, that were not in the measure as it originally was voted out of the committee Wednesday. Senator Tydings said consent of the committee was obtained to "clarify" the language.

A new type of license, a solicitor's permit, carrying an annual fee of $1, was authorized. It would be issued to persons soliciting orders for beer.

The language of the "on sale" license provision was clarified to provide beer could be sold only in rooms used primarily for serving of food or to assemblages where more than six persons are present, or in other

Matsuoka Says Japan To Stay in Manchuria

Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese representative who withdrew from the League of Nations, arrived yesterday to confer with President Roosevelt. He was greeted by Japanese Ambassador Debuchi (right).

Will Not Leave at Least for Six Months, Avers Delegate Here.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Possibility that Japan will maintain her occupation of Manchuria for the next six months, at least, was admitted here yesterday by Yosuke Matsuoka, chief of the Japanese delegation at the League of Nations, who is now returning to Tokyo.

The Japanese spokesman covered the whole field of Asiatic politics in the course of an interview at the Hotel Carlton. He had given out a prepared statement before the meeting with the journalists, but he developed the Japanese position on international affairs more fully in an interview afterward.

Mr. Matsuoka smoked a pipe all during the interview and rarely even removed it from his mouth while speaking. He speaks excellent English with great deliberation and exactitude.

The freedom with which his remarks have been interpreted in the American press caused him to exclaim with some petulance at the beginning of the interview apropos of the statement attributed to him with regard to the presence of the American fleet in the Pacific:

"I denied the report that the removal of the fleet was desired by Japan. That is not our business." Then he exclaimed with great emphasis:

"That's your business. However,

U.S. AND BRITAIN ASK TRADE PARLEY SOON

Davis and MacDonald Are Convinced It Can Be Held in Late May.

London, March 30 (A.P.).—World aspects of America's "new deal" became evident here today in conference between Prime Minister Macdonald and Norman H. Davis, American Ambassador-at-large.

They have as their objective convening a world economic conference as soon as possible and breaking the strangle hold which is suffocating world trade.

Both believe that the sooner the conference is held, the better. They proceeded with a preliminary exchange of views, the first of which was a decision that only six weeks' notice need be given the participating nations, instead of three months, making the beginning of the conference possible for late in May.

Their talks today were confined to the economic conference. Disarmament and debts were not discussed.

Mr. Davis said the conference does not depend on settlement of either debts or disarmament, and he would not discuss the British debt payment due the United States on June 15. He intimated, however, that the new Congress was largely elected on the understanding that there would be no cancellation, reduction or postponement of the war debts.

He is proceeding on the assumption that the economic conference will be held in London, and does not know whether a preliminary British mission, possibly headed by Mr. MacDonald, will go to Washington.

After conferring twice with Mr. Macdonald today and making an engagement for another conference tomorrow, Mr. Davis had luncheon with Sir John Simon, the foreign secretary.

MANCHUKUO OPIUM TRUST IN LIMELIGHT

Japan's Drug Policy Studied by Diplomats With Matsuoka Here.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Aims and purposes of the recently established Japanese opium monopoly in Manchukuo are matters of lively interest in diplomatic circles, it was learned last night following arrival in Washington of Yosuke Matsuoka, chief of the Japanese delegation, which withdrew a month ago from the League of Nations' sessions at Geneva.

Whether formal inquiry into the Japanese-sponsored drug monopoly would figure in the conversations between M. Matsuoka and United States officials was not disclosed. It was revealed, however, that the whole subject is of special diplomatic interest at the moment, because of

Watertown 'Bomb' Mailing Continues

Shotgun Shell Addressed to High Washington Official Is Found.

Watertown, N. Y., March 30 (A.P.).—The finding of a third package containing a shotgun shell, intended to be sent through the mails to a high Government official at Washington, was revealed by the postoffice here today.

It was found Wednesday noon at the box across the street from the postoffice where the two previous packages were placed. The latest package was addressed, postoffice officials said, to a man connected with an air line in New Jersey. They declined to reveal the addressee's name or city. A note inside the package asked that the container be remailed to the government official.

Farmer Strike Slayer Gets 3 Years in Prison

Elk Point, S. Dak., March 10 (A.P.).—A farm strike slaying cost a picket three years in the State penitentiary today. That sentence was imposed on Nile Cochran, Moville (Iowa) farmer, who was convicted in circuit court today of manslaughter in the second degree in connection with the fatal shooting of R. D. Markell, Elk Point milk trucker, in a milk strike gun battle, February 3.

SENATE PASSES RELIEF GRANTS OF HALF BILLION

Second Step in 3-Point Roosevelt Program Voted, 55 to 17.

APPROVAL OF HOUSE EXPECTED MONDAY

Forestry Action Completed; Message on Third Aid Plan Due Soon.

(Associated Press.)

The second step in the administration's vast three-point unemployment and hunger relief program—the appropriation of $500,000,000 for direct Federal grants to the States—received overwhelming approval of the Senate yesterday and was sent to the House where passage is expected Monday.

The vote, 55 to 17, came after congressional action had been completed on the first part of the Roosevelt fast-moving relief legislation—to authorize the employment of about 250,000 men on conservation work in the forests.

Administration advisers already are at work on the third unemployment aid proposal and a message on the subject, will go to Congress soon.

Public Works Issue.

This was a call for a huge public works enterprise to be financed by a Federal bond issue rather than appropriations from the Treasury as in the past—on the theory that future generations shall bear part of the expense for buildings that will last for years to come.

Meanwhile, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said in a statement that organized labor was ready to submit recommendations upon all questions presented today at a meeting called by Secretary Perkins to consider unemployment relief measures.

The statement was issued after a conference attended by representatives of unions affiliated with the federation. The meeting today will consider emergency relief as well as a long-time program to improve the condition of labor.

Borrowing of R. F. C.

The $500,000,000 for direct outlays to the States for aid to the suffering would be raised under the measure, by Reconstruction Finance Corporation borrowing, subject to the approval of the President.

A Federal relief administration would be set up to supervise distribution of this and the balance of the original $300,000,000 given the R. F. C. for such relief, thus ending the corporation's activities in this field.

Forty per cent, or $200,000,000 of the fund, would be apportioned to the States, Territoric and the District of Columbia on the basis of one-third of the amount of all public

Man Freed in Deaths Of Brother and Girl

Lima, Ohio, March 30 (A.P.).—Loren Truesdale, 23, was found not guilty by a jury tonight in a second trial on charges of first-degree murder in the deaths of his brother, Earl, 20, and Miss Thelma Woods, 17.

The jury returned the verdict after deliberating five and one-half hours. Miss Woods and Truesdale's brother were beaten to death the night of May 30, 1931. Their bodies were found in a deep quarry pool in an isolated section near Lima.

D. C. FUNDS BILL WILL OPEN WAY FOR TAX SLASH

Measure, to Be Reported to House Soon, Not to Bar Reductions.

DECISION ON HEARINGS MAY BE MADE TODAY

View of Buchanan Follows Blanton's Pledge for Cut of 20 Cents.

The $30,332,200 District appropriations bill will not contain the usual ban on tax reduction when it is reported to the House next week, House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan declared last night.

This will leave the way open for a scaling down in the general property tax by the Commissioners, in proportion to whatever cut in expenditures is sanctioned by Congress. Representative Buchanan sees no reason why taxes should not be reduced rather than allow a huge Treasury surplus to accumulate.

The Buchanan statement followed a pledge by Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, that either the Commissioners will cut down the property tax rate 20 cents, or Congress will order it cut. This would bring the tax on real estate and tangible personal property from $1.70 per $100 to $1.50.

Conforms With Policy.

The pronouncement of both Texans is in line with the position previously taken by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, and Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, chairmen, respectively, of the Senate and House District Committees.

Representative Buchanan said his intention to remove the traditional restriction on tax reduction under the $1.70 rate conforms with his announced policy of not tacking any legislation on appropriation bills.

The limitation appeared in the original 1934 appropriation bill, but was stricken out in the House on a point of order by Representative Howard W. Smith (Democrat), Virginia. The Senate promptly put it back in the bill again, but receded in conference.

The House appropriations chairman said last night he will allow his deficiencies subcommittee to determine whether any more hearings will be held on the District estimates before the bill is taken up in the House Monday or Tuesday.

Decision Is Due.

He said he has no desire to be "autocratic," but it would be impossible to grant hearings to all citizens who

Maryland Senate Moves for Repeal

Votes 26 to 2 for State Convention Meeting in September.

Annapolis, Md., March 30 (A.P.).—By a vote of 26 to 2, the Maryland Senate today adopted the administration measure for setting up machinery to act on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Under terms of the measure, which now goes to the House for its consideration, an election to name candidates to a State convention would be held September 12.

The convention date is set for October 19.

Britain Orders Envoy Home As Soviet Split Approaches

Sir John Simon Explains Tense Situation to Commons Resulting From Arrest of Vickers Company Representatives for Sabotage.

London, March 30 (U.P.).—Great Britain and Soviet Russia, in bad humor tonight, appeared rapidly approaching an open break in diplomatic relations as a result of the arrest in Moscow of British representatives of the Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical Co. on charges of sabotage.

Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, announced in the House of Commons during a tense session that the British Ambassador, Sir Esmond Ovey, had been ordered home from Moscow.

Sir John admitted the ambassador was instructed to hurry to London ostensibly to report in person on developments growing out of the arrest of the Britons in Russia.

British officials insisted the instructions from the foreign office, however, did not necessarily mean the ambassador's withdrawal or an immediate rupture of diplomatic relations. It was said that Sir Esmond would return to Moscow, although this was doubted in well-informed quarters.

The United Press was told authoritatively that the ambassador "presumably" will return to Moscow, but that he might not if there is a new turn for the worse.

Moscow, March 30 (U.P.).—Espionage has been added to charges of sabotage against British subjects under arrest here following an inquiry into their company, Metropolitan-Vickers, Ltd., a British electrical concern, it was revealed tonight.

23 DEAD IN TORNADOES THAT SWEEP SECTIONS OF 3 SOUTHERN STATES

Hanging of Mrs. Judd Is Finally Decreed

Pardon Board Refuses to Commute Sentence; Reprieved Week.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 30 (A.P.).—The Arizona Board of Pardons and Paroles today denied a commutation of the death sentence imposed on Winnie Ruth Judd for the slaying of two women in Arizona's celebrated "trunk murder."

The board, however, granted her a reprieve until April 21 to avoid execution of the death sentence on Good Friday.

The board addressed a letter to Gov. B. B. Moeur in which it said "this board respectfully declines to make any recommendation to the Governor of the State of Arizona for a commutation of sentence."

Gov. Moeur, under Arizona law, has no power to commute the sentence without recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Paroles.

"Friday, April 14," the board told the governor, "is Good Friday. The Board of Pardons and Paroles is of the opinion that, in deference to this day a reprieve of one week should be granted."

Accompanying the letter to the governor was a proclamation for reprieve ready for the governor's signature. He signed it tonight.

CAB DRIVER FOUND SLAIN NEAR CANAL

Auto Is Nearby, With Lights on and Motor Running; Death Is Mystery.

A man identified by a card found on his person as Aubrey R. Martin, of 1915 G street northwest, a taxicab driver, was found shot to death late last night on the edge of the C. & O. Canal in front of 4520 Canal road. Whether he had been shot down as he ran from an assailant or had committed suicide had not been determined early today.

His cab, with the lights burning and the motor running, was parked on the side of Canal road. The body was found sprawled on the rather steep bank of the canal, with the legs crumpled under. The bullet entered the top of the head and slightly to the right, and a revolver was lying about 2 feet above the body. The man's cap was hanging loosely on a bramble bush.

The shooting evidently occurred about 10 p. m. Harvey Burdette, who has a boat club nearby, said that at about that hour he heard two sharp reports which sounded like the striking of two boards together. Thinking some one was trying to steal his skiff, he went to investigate. He noticed the parked car, and heard a gurgling noise, he said, but thought nothing of it, and returned to his house after finding the skiff was still anchored where he had left it.

Worried by the gurgling noise, however, he went back about an hour later, he said, and found the body. At

Death of Student Laid to Policeman

Collegian Is Fatally Shot as He Is Mistaken for Auto Thief.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 30 (A.P.).—Ernest McCollam, 21-year-old Arizona State Teachers College student, died today from wounds inflicted last night, investigators from the county attorney's office said, by a Tempe police officer who mistook a group of students for motor car thieves.

Ed Johnson and A. David Latham, deputies for the county attorney, said Lester E. Ater, Tempe night police officer, fired the shots that wounded McCollam fatally while he and several other students were pushing their car to start it.

Johnson said he was told Ater shot five times at the group after they disregarded his command to halt.

Man Dies After Rescue From 4-Day Mine Trap

Mount Carmel, Pa., March 30 (A. P.).—John Chealok, jr., 28, who was rescued alive after being entombed four days in an abandoned mine hole, died today in a hospital at Ashland from the effects of his experience.

Trapped 75 feet below ground level, Chealock was rescued late yesterday by workmen who had labored more than 100 hours with the expectation of finding him dead.

PROBING OF MORGAN RECORDS IS SOUGHT

Senate Body Reports Firm Spurns Questionnaire; Authority Likely.

(Associated Press.)

A Senate investigation headed last night toward the inmost files of one of the world's great banking houses, J. P. Morgan & Co., determined to bring to light anything that has a hearing on the central task of correcting stock and bond sale practices.

Authority to inspect the Morgan records was sought of the Senate by its banking committee, which disclosed it had been rebuffed so far in its efforts to bring the big private banking concern into the light of its stock market investigation. There appeared to be no doubt that the Senate would grant this power.

But not even that investigation was allowed to stand in the way of action on the Roosevelt proposal for immediate legislation to bring security issuance and sale under the regulation of the Federal Government, to afford investors protection against dishonesty and give them full opportunity to know what they are buying.

Both the Banking Committee of the Senate and the Interstate Commerce Committee of the House set for this morning the start of hearings on this legislation.

Medicinal Liquor Bill Is Ready for President

(Associated Press.)

Congress yesterday approved another modification of the Volstead law which would remove restrictions on the quantity of medicinal liquor issued through prescriptions.

Final action came in the House by a standing vote of 153 to 59 on the Celler-Copeland bill. It was jammed through the Senate Wednesday without a roll call and now goes to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature.

3 Nazis Punished As U. S. Protests

Disciplinary Act Follows Attack on American Jew in Berlin.

Berlin, March 30 (U.P.).—Sharp protests by United States consular authorities against attacks by Fascists on American Jews resulted in disciplinary action today by the Nazi organization.

One member of the Nazi party headed by Chancellor Adolf Hitler was expelled from the organization and ordered held for trial. Two others were disciplined by commanders of their local bodies.

The action followed a protest made to the Berlin police headquarters by United States Consul General Charles Messersmith, concerning an attack by Nazis and associates on Julian Fuchs, an American proprietor of a Berlin night club.

Louisiana, Texas And Arkansas Victims.

MANY INJURED IN GREAT WIND

Relief Hampered by Muddy Roads and High Rivers.

(Associated Press.)

A slowly mounting toll, which tentatively stood at 23 dead and nearly three-score injured, was left along a property-strewn trail of tornadic winds which last night swept through lumbering camps of east Texas, across the North Red River Parish in northwestern Louisiana and into southwestern Arkansas.

Rescue workers, seeking to check up on possible dead and injured in small communities in the storm's path, found their way blocked by swollen streams and almost impassable roads. Disrupted communications added to the confusion.

Deaths were reported from Shelbyville, Huntington, Lindale and San Augustine, in eastern Texas near the Louisiana border; Hall Summit, in northwestern Louisiana, and Mount Holly, in the El Dorado vicinity of southwestern Arkansas.

Relief Work Rushed.

A survey from the air by O. C. Palmer, Tyler, Tex., airport manager, disclosed the storm apparently came from the southwest and traveled northeastward, leveling homes of town and countryside in its path. The houses fell as if bombed, the walls falling outward and scattering like straw. Rain, hail and lightning accompanied the wind.

Large pine trees were uprooted. Derricks were felled in the Arkansas oil fields.

Physicians and Red Cross officials hastily began to minister to the injured and homeless. Stores in the area were divested of cots and bedding.

Etolie, Tex., a hamlet of about fifteen houses was almost wiped out, but physicians found none of the 50 inhabitants had been injured.

Tentative List of Dead.

Mount Holly, Ark.—Mrs. Floyd Boyett.

Shelbyville, Tex.—Mrs. Jessie Vale, 35, an expectant mother; Ed Passmore, 39; daughter of Ben Graves and her infant child; unidentified white man, about 25.

San Augustine, Tex.—Ferris Andrews, tenant farmer, his wife, their child.

Lindale—Lorell Shaw, 15, Negress; Luella Wimberly, 70, Negress.

Huntington—Miss Lena Linton, George Knight, Mrs. Roebuck, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Welch, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bethel Woodrum; Carl Bates.

RAIL LABOR AGAINST MERGED OPERATION

Regulation of Bus Rates Also Is Opposed by National Farm Societies.

(Associated Press.)

American railroad labor, with fewer men employed than at any time within the last half century, yesterday voiced opposition to indicated plans of the administration for coordinated operation of the carriers.

Meanwhile, representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange and the Farmers Union said they were against any regulation of motor carrier rates at this time.

Recommendations dealing with bus and truck transportation, however, are not expected to be included in the proposals for emergency transportation legislation which the President is preparing.

Representatives of the 21 standard railroad unions meeting here characterized any plan for one-man control of the Nation's rail carriers as a proposal "to deprive thousands of communities of service" and "several hundred thousand workers of work and wages."

Their statement said they opposed any "dictatorship subservient to Wall street bankers" and "if the days of competition are ended then the only monopoly control which the people will tolerate is actual and direct control by the Government."

At the same time Donald Richberg, counsel for the brotherhoods, said that when he was called to the White House a week ago he refused to participate in discussions of railroad coordination. He informed the President, he said, that in his capacity as counsel for the workers he could not lend his aid to any one-man control plan.

The plea that motor carriers be dealt with separately from railway, water and aerial transportation was delivered at the White House yesterday by Edward A. O'Neal, of the Farm Federation; John Simpson, of the Farmers Union, and Fred Brenckman, of the Grange.

Their statement urged that "no attempt be made at this time to regulate rates of 'contract' or private motor carriers."

The railway brotherhoods met in special session here to consider the problem raised by plans for rail coordination.

Mitchell Favors Unified Air Force

Merger Urged as Saving Millions and Adding to Efficiency.

(Associated Press.)

Just as vigorously as in the days before he was court-martialed, former Brig. Gen. William Mitchell spoke yesterday in behalf of what House leaders say is, for the present at least, a hopeless cause—a single department of national defense.

With his old-time disregard for the views of old-line Army and Navy officers, the former assistant chief of the Army Air Corps and boss of America's expeditionary aviation forces told the House Military Affairs Committee:

"We've got to remodel our policy of national defense. We should have a single department of national defense. It would not only increase efficiency, but save $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 a year. We should develop long-distance bombers and Zeppelins, for the decisive battles of the next war will be fought in the air. We can build planes now that can fly 6,000 miles and carry 4,000 pounds of bombs. And you could send out 50 Zeppelins under a good commander to bomb any vital city in the world, and 45 of them would get back safely."

Lehman Beer Bill Headed for Defeat

Senate Passes It While Assembly Republicans Prepare to Kill.

Albany, N. Y., March 30 (A.P.).—Gov. Lehman's beer control bill, in amended form, was passed by the Senate late today and sent to the Republican controlled Assembly, where it was assured of almost certain defeat. The Senate vote was 26 to 25.

The bill as amended would give the governor unrestricted power to appoint members to the beer control commission, without recommendation from State, civic and professional organizations, as provided in the original bill. Bars would be permitted.

The Assembly had adjourned for the day. It may take up the Lehman bill tomorrow. Meanwhile, the Republican majority was lined up for passage of the Dunkel bill, which distributes the beer licensing power among county boards, instead of centering it in a State commission, such as the Lehman bill provides.

first he thought the man was only intoxicated, but when he touched the man's hand he discovered it was cold in death. Burdette called police.

Miss Marjorie Hills, who lives at 4521 Canal road, told police the taxicab was parked beside the road when she passed about 9 p. m.

In the front seat of the car police found a half-filled pint bottle of alleged liquor, a box of cartridges and a gray fedora hat. Whether the hat belonged to the man was not known, but it was pointed out that it would have been unusual for him to have an extra hat with him. It also was pointed out that his cap was hanging on the bramble bush in a manner which indicated it may have been torn from his head in falling after being shot.

Possible Cut in D. C. Tax May Be Delayed to July

Reichelderfer Also Says Congress Threat to Withhold Federal Contribution May Make Any Reduction of Levy Out of Question.

Whatever reduction is made in District taxes will not be announced definitely before July 1, unless the new rate is inserted in the District supply bill, and there will be no cut if the threat of certain House members to eliminate the Federal contribution is realized.

This was stated yesterday by Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board of commissioners, after Representative Tom Blanton had suggested a tax rate reduction from $1.70 a $100 to $1.50, thereby effecting a saving of approximately $2,600,000 a year.

This delay will mean that final determination of the matter will be left to the new municipal administration. It is customary, however, not to announce the new tax rate before July 1, when newer and more accurate estimates of District revenue are made by the auditor.

While the Commissioners will not make official predictations regarding the new tax rate, it is known that they consider a 20-cent reduction fair under the budget submitted by Budget Director Douglas early this week. It is almost certain that the cut will not exceed this figure.

Auditor Daniel J. Donovan yesterday gave the Commissioners a detailed estimate of the surplus which would accumulate under the Budget Bureau's District bill. The total, he said, would be $9,800,000, of which $6,100,000 would go in the general fund unless taxes were reduced.

The gasoline tax under the present rate will yield $1,800,000, while the surplus in the water fund, after the proposed 10 per cent cut in rates is made, will amount to $1,400,000.

In recent years Congress has prevented the Commissioners from reducing the tax rate by inserting a provision that the rate shall not be below $1.70 in the appropriations act. The new bill carries no such provision.

MATSUOKA SAYS JAPAN STAYS 6 MONTHS MORE IN MANCHURIA

the concentration of the entire American fleet in the Pacific can not but cause some misgivings to some people, in exactly the same way that the concentration of the Japanese fleet in the region of the Hawaiian Islands might cause some concern here."

The chief delegate of the Japanese government to Geneva proved himself to be a shrewd user of words, as he skilfully etched the Japanese position on several points in such a way as to leave no doubts as to the Japanese position, but without committing himself definitely to any specific doctrine. On the question of the revision of the Nine Power Treaty he avoided stating baldly Japan's desire to revamp the international agreement, but declared:

"When the powers made the Nine Power Treaty they were evidently dealing in fictions, so far as I can make out. They thought that conditions were going to get better and, instead, they have gotten worse. The question of revision should be studied."

Japan's presence in Manchuria is legalistically defensible, he declared, and cited the example of Great Britain in sending 20,000 men to Shanghai in 1927 to protect the lives and property of British subjects there. Japan, on the same basis, has sent to the vast region of Manchuria, as large as France and Germany together, the comparatively small force of 50,000 to assist Manchukuo in keeping order.

"Peace Has Been Restored."

Peace has been restored to a very great degree, he declared, in this territory and the Japanese are applying the same methods that the United States used in the Philippines to bring over the wandering bandit chiefs. Money is being paid to these bandits for the rifles and ammunition they hand over to the authorities and jobs are being found for them.

The Japanese position on the mandated islands will continue just as it has always been, even though notice has been served on the league that Japan will withdraw in two years. Mr. Matsuoka definitely indicated that the Japanese government regards its mandate to the islands as something completely apart and separate from the league.

"The statutes of the league have nothing to do with the mandates islands. This was all settled even before the Treaty of Versailles was signed by the Supreme Council of the Allied Powers. The United States took the same stand as Japan is now taking when the American Government brought up the status of Yap during the course of the Washington Arms Conference."

Attitude Is Disquieting.

Then Mr. Matsuoka took his pipe out of his mouth, looked up at the ceiling meditatively and mused:

"I wonder why it is that the United States is always talking about these mandated islands. Of course, if the United States wants them, that's another question. But this American attitude on the islands gives Japan some misgivings."

The prepared statement of the Japanese statesman was replete with breezy statements, startlingly differing from the conventional phraseology of ordinary diplomatic usage. Examples of them are as follows:

"I think it is a very unfortunate thing that the large number of Chinese, whom you educate in this country with the Boxer Indemnity Fund, do not concentrate their efforts on fighting the real enemies of China, who are their own Chinese war lords. Their propaganda in the United States against Japan is largely eyewash."

Sympathy for China.

"The sympathy of no American for China is higher than my own. For most of the past 30 years I have been working and living among the Chinese. I have formed many friendships among them, and have a sincere affectionate attachment to them. I am not without sentiment. On the contrary, I am a very sentimental fellow. But my sentiment is based upon the cornerstones of knowledge, understanding, experience and common sense, with regard to China. I know where the fault lies in China. It lies with the many different corrupt and self-seeking Chinese governments. Until China herself reforms, her people are going to continue to wallow in their appalling misery."

"Japan is no enemy of China, although we have been made to appear such. Nothing would the Japanese people and government like better than to see a stabilized, organized and united China. Such a China would buy more goods from us. One of the great misfortunes between Japan and the League of Nations was the success of the efforts of American-educated representatives of China in humbugging the league into a contrary belief.

"As I pointed out over and over again at the league, China is not a nation in the sense that Americans and Europeans use that term. It is a gigantic conglomeration of military dictatorships, armed and even fighting with each other."

MANCHUKUO DRUG MONOPOLY IS ANALYZED BY DIPLOMATS

Japan's impending ratification of the Geneva narcotics convention of 1931, in which the principal world powers undertook to cooperate in the effective control of the drug traffic. Japan, along with England, France and several lesser powers, has not yet deposited ratifications at Geneva.

It was assumed in some quarters that President Roosevelt or Secretary of State Hull might discuss the matter with M. Matsuoka during the Washington conversations, but there was no official confirmation of the suggestion last night at the White House or State Department.

The new Manchurian opium monopoly has attracted world-wide attention since unofficial news of its inception percolated to European capitals last winter. The enterprise was projected at a meeting in the headquarters of the Bank of Japan early last November, and was entirely financed by Japanese interests.

The contract between the puppet authorities of Manchukuo and the Tokyo bankers pledged the revenues from the Japanese-controlled opium traffic among the Chinese in southern Manchuria as security for a loan of 30,000,000 yen (approximately $15,000,000 at par) to the nominal government of Manchukuo.

Never before in history have anticipated revenues from a state drug monopoly been hypothecated against a foreign loan.

Japanese government circles have disclaimed responsibility for this potential encouragement of the opium traffic in Manchuria, on the ground that the loan was financed by private interests in Tokyo. In some circles, however, it has been pointed out that no foreign loan may be floated in Japan save with the approval of the government.

In connection with the opium loan, it was announced by the Tokyo spokesman of the finance ministry on November 8, 1932, that "the Manchurian bond issue will be accorded about the same treatment given to a national bond issue in this country."

Subscription Urged.

A few days later the ministry of finance issued a formal public indorsement of the issue which said, in part:

> We hope the Japanese people, about whose desire for the development of Manchukuo there can be no doubt, will vie with one another in subscribing this loan.

A third formality which linked the Japanese government with the new opium monopoly was the action of the foreign office in advising England, France and America, soon after the loan contract was closed, that the new issue "would not be in contravention of the regulations of the four-power banking syndicate organized some years ago to finance certain operations in China."

Blow to World Curb.

Reports of the opium monopoly were at first discredited in the principal world capitals, particularly in those quarters which had followed for 25 years or more the efforts of the powers to realize effective cooperation for the gradual elimination of the drug traffic in the Orient.

Pursuant to this purpose, the principal powers, including Japan, signed the Hague narcotics convention of 1912. Under Article 6 of this agreement, Japan specifically bound herself to this covenant:

> The contracting parties shall take measures for the gradual and effective suppression of the manufacture of, internal trade in, and use of prepared opium, with due regard to the varying circumstances of each country concerned, unless regulations on the subject are already in existence.

Jehol Main Source.

Trade advices have it that the opium supplies for the new Japanese-controlled distributing system are to come from the Chinese province of Jehol, where important military operations are in progress.

State monopolies as a step toward the elimination of the drug traffic are sanctioned under The Hague control treaty and the developing Geneva agreement of 1925. Under these treaties, however, the state control is regarded as a repressive measure.

The Japanese action in backing an international loan with the opium revenues, on the other hand, presents the whole matter in a questionable light, in the view of informed diplomatic circles.

The Japanese opium monopoly in Formosa, sanctioned by the treaty powers, has been notably successful in curbing the degradation of the opium traffic.

Recently, the Japanese authorities have explored the possibilities of establishing new and larger opium-producing areas in Korea.

The projected Korean expansion, plus the normal supplies from Jehol, if that province ultimately is attached to Japan, would afford ample opium for the Japanese-sponsored state distributing system in Manchukuo.

FARM BILL SUCCESS CONCEDED BY FOES

Peanuts and Flax Added to Program of Curtailing Crop Production.

(Associated Press.)

Senate approval of President Roosevelt's far-reaching farm relief bill—one of the basic points in his recovery program—was forecast yesterday, even by proponents of the measure.

With the major test yet to come in the Senate Agriculture Committee, members of that group yesterday voted three changes in the bill, none shifting the heart of the program, which is intended to curtail farm production and boost prices.

Peanuts and flax were added by the committee to the list of basic commodities in the measure and efforts will be made today to include oats, potatoes, citrus and other fruits before it is sent to the Senate floor.

The group also deleted provisions that the Secretary of Agriculture in fixing the processing tax rates should consider the effect on unemployment, wage scales and the rate of consumption.

But opponents of the program privately said they were not encouraged by the amendment movement. Instead they held that irrespective of the form in which the committee reports it, administration supporters in the Senate will return it to the original form in which it passed the House.

Leaders of farm organizations who have been busily counting the bill's supporters, predicted passage in its original form or without material change. They did not believe final action will be completed, however, in the next ten days.

The most formidable challenge to the bill is scheduled for today when the committee will vote on the proposal of its chairman, Senator Smith (Democrat), South Carolina, to curtail greatly the powers proposed for Secretary Wallace to determine methods of relief and apply them as he feels warranted. Smith's proposal is in the shape of a substitute bill in which his cotton option plan would be retained.

Governors Urged To Call Oil Parley

Delegates at Session Here Further Stress Need of Curtailment.

(Associated Press.)

A final meeting of a group of delegates that attended the governors' oil conference resulted yesterday in recommendations that the chief executives of the principal producing States arange for an immediate conference limited to themselves or their representatives.

The purpose of the meeting would be to agree upon curtailment of production and other related matters. The program adopted at the conference Wednesday urged that a personal representative of the President be named to help bring some agreement toward stabilization of the industry.

A recommendation that a Federal law prohibiting the interstate shipment of oil produced in violation of State regulations also was a principal point in the plan presented to Secretary Ickes for transmission to President Roosevelt. The delegates yesterday went on record as favoring Government cooperation, but not Government control, of oil production.

TAX CUT POSSIBLE UNDER FUNDS BILL

have asked to appear. He said a decision on that score probably will be reached today.

Representative Buchanan suggested the possibility of making the District surplus from gasoline and water tax funds "more mobile" as one solution of the District's financial problem.

While proposing to offer no legislation in this direction, he said he thought it would be a good thing if these surplus funds set up under law could be made accessible to the District in case of emergency need.

Saving of $2,600,000.

Representative Blanton said yesterday he had talked with District Auditor Daniel J. Donovan about local tax reduction as a means of preventing accumulation of surpluses. The 20-cent cut he proposes would save taxpayers approximately $2,600,000 a year.

Although District citizens may be denied the right to protest the $11,000,000 District budget slash before the House Deficiencies Committee, it appeared likely they will receive a hearing when the bill goes to the Senate. Chairman Elmer Thomas, of the Senate District Appropriations subcommittee, has been besieged with requests for a hearing.

rooms, at the discretion of the Commissioners.

Permits could be renewed every year without filing new applications.

Senator Tydings indicated last night he will offer no new amendments to the bill, and will oppose any effort to legalize serving of beer in drug stores. A delegation of druggists appeared at the Capitol yesterday in support of the change.

Drys Keep Hands Off.

No concerted attempt has been made in Senate dry quarters to defeat the bill. Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho; Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, and others, said they will vote against the measure as a whole, but indorse such individual provisions as the restriction on sale to minors under 18.

Senator Tydings will be aided in his effort to get an early favorable vote on the measure by Senate Leader Robinson and Senateor Pat Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, who piloted the national beer bill through the Senate. Senator Harrison pledged Tydings his every assistance.

Letters were sent to all senators yesterday by the Hotel and Restaurant Employes Alliance, Local 781, opposing the clause authorizing sale of beer for consumption in automobiles parked on private property.

BLACK'S 5-DAY BILL FAVORED IN REPORT

Senate Judiciary Body Votes 11 to 3 on Plan to Cut Working Hours.

(Associated Press.)

A compulsory five-day week, six-hour day for industry was voted yesterday by the Senate Judiciary Committee, which reported to the Senate that it would put more than 6,000,000 persons to work and "aid in restoring hope and confidence throughout the land."

The bill, approved 11 to 3, was sponsored by Senator Hugo Black (Democrat), Alabama, and extensive hearings were held, with many witnesses claiming it was unconstitutional.

In dealing with this phase, the committee reported that:

"Congress is given the right to regulate interstate commerce by the Constitution * * * the right to regulate, under all the decisions, includes the right to protect the people from that kind of commerce that produces widespread human misery, destitution, sickness and want.

"The power to regulate carries with it the right to prescribe rules that will save commerce from self-destruction and protect all the people from practices of some of the people engaged in interstate commerce that destroy commerce itself."

The measure would penalize the movement in interstate commerce of goods produced by labor working more than 30 hours a week.

Senator Black said he would try to get quick action on the bill in the Senate.

CLOSED BANKS GIVEN 2 NEW REGULATIONS

Treasury Takes Additional Steps to Restore Normal Conditions.

(Associated Press.)

Further steps toward restoration of normal banking conditions were taken by the Treasury yesterday in promulgating new regulations permitting unopened Federal Reserve member banks to carry on usual fiduciary business, and State member banks to pay out deposits which are lawfully secured.

The first of the regulations revoked a previous one issued March 7 which denied to trust company members, and those national banks operating trust departments the right to pay out or permit the withdrawal of coin or currency.

The new order permitted the transaction of such fiduciary business in the normal and usual manner, and allowed the banks to make payments on accounts of the principal or income of trusts or other fiduciary funds. It provided, however, that no withdrawals of trust funds could be made from any other department of the bank.

Under the second regulation, State member banks unopened were privileged to permit withdrawal of lawfully secured deposits. This makes available to depositors virtually all public funds and moneys which individuals and corporations deposit only upon receipt of adequate collateral from the banking institution.

Such withdrawals, however, must be in accord with emergency banking regulations, and must be approved by the appropriate State authority the only possibility" to save the young woman's life. Lack of funds has prevented an attempt to carry the matter to the Nation's highest tribunal, Wilson said.

MRS. JUDD TO HANG, PARDON BOARD SAYS

The lawyer said he plans to move before Superior Court Judge Howard C. Speakman, for setting aside of the verdict and judgment, and, if the motion is denied, to appeal to the Arizona Supreme Court. He was not optimistic, however, he said.

Mrs. Judd is sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Agnes Anne Leroi. For the slaying of Hedvig Samuelson she has not been tried. An attempt made yesterday to have a date set immediately for trial on that charge failed when Superior Judge Howard C. Speakman dismissed the long-pending murder information.

In her plea to the Board of Pardons and Paroles, Mrs. Judd declared she killed both women in defense of her own life in a fight in which they were the aggressors.

"A thorough and thoughtful consideration of all the testimony and Ruth Judd's own statements to the board," said a formal brief setting forth the board's findings, "together with a careful review of all the facts and circumstances attendant upon the tragedy, compels the board to believe that Ruth Judd shot Agnes Anne Leroi through the temple while she was in bed, the muzzle of the gun being held at or near the surface of the skin, and that Mrs. Leroi was not killed in self-defense."

The decision of the board was unanimous.

State Prison, Florence, Ariz., March 30 (A.P.).—Winnie Ruth Judd "was stunned" when he broke the news to her in her cell that the Arizona board of pardons and paroles had refused to commute her death sentence, Howard G. Richardson, of her counsel, said after a brief visit with the condemned woman tonight.

COLITIS IS BLAMED FOR CERMAK DEATH

Personal Physician Calls Zangara's Bullet Only Contributing Factor.

Chicago, March 30 (A.P.).—Anton J. Cermak, Chicago's mayor, shot down by the assassin who fired at President Roosevelt at Miami, died of an ulcerative colitis and the bullet wound inflicted by Giuseppe Zangara was only a contributory factor, Dr. Karl A. Meyer, the mayor's physician, said today.

Dr. Meyer, superintendent of the Cook County Hospital, was a member of the medical staff which remained at the bedside of the stricken man during his protracted illness in a Miami hospital.

The bullet wound, however, together with Mayor Cermak's general rundown condition and mental uneasiness, said Dr. Meyer, was contributory to the colitis infection. Such infections, he declared, were fatal in about 50 per cent of cases.

"The mayor would have recovered from the bullet wound had it not been for the complication of colitis," Dr. Meyer said. "The autopsy disclosed that the wound had healed. It disclosed also that the other complications were not directly due to the bullet wound."

Dr. Meyer said that a streptococci infection was directly the cause of the colitis, but that attempts to determine that while the mayor lived were unavailing. It was disclosed by a postmortem.

The mayor's life could have been saved if the colitis could have been cured, Dr. Meyer asserted.

Piece of String Only Clew To Coughlin Home Bombing

Priest, Who Recently Figured in Detroit Banking Controversy, Regards Incident Not as Attempt on His Life But as Intimidation.

Detroit, March 30 (A.P.).—A piece of string—the slenderest of clews—tonight was the sole tangible object held by detectives seeking the person who set off a black powder bomb before dawn today in the home of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin. The bomb, lowered into the basement, caused only slight damage and no injuries.

Father Coughlin, a principal figure in the controversy over Detroit's banking situation, said he did not regard the bombing as an attempt on his life, but rather as an intimidation. He was shaken by the explosion, which came as he slept, but was not hurt.

Tonight the two-story frame dwelling in Fairlawn avenue of suburban Royal Oak was under police guard. For a great part of the day police were forced to rope off the streets in front of the home to keep back crowds of curious. Father Coughlin left the home shortly before noon, and attendants said he did not advise them whether he would return tonight.

Hanging from the frame of a window the officers found a long white cord, with which the bomb apparently had been lowered into the basement and held in place by the window frame. A general police order was issued for suspicious automobiles and persons, and a thorough search of the home was made for fingerprints, but detectives admitted the clews were slender.

Recently Father Coughlin has engaged in a heated controversy with opponents of the Government plan under which the new National Bank of Detroit was established here, shortly after the two large national banks, the First National and the Guardian National, had been placed under conservators.

STEVENS BATTLING TO SAVE COMPANY

Insurance Man Says R. F. C. Loan Promise Failure Caused Collapse.

Chicago, March 30 (A.P.).—The once affluent and influential Stevens family—shattered by financial loss, a suicide, and illness—began a final attempt today to regain control of the $150,000,000 Illinois Life Insurance Co.

Ernest J. Stevens, his brother a suicide and his 80-year-old father near death from apoplexy brought on by worry and grief, started the action by filing a petition in Federal court.

In the petition he charged the Reconstruction Finance Corporation sent the company into failure by breaking a promise to loan it $5,000,000. He demanded that negotiations for sale of the company's assets cease and that action be reinstated toward obtaining the loan.

The insurance company eventually obtained a loan of $700,000 but later went into receivership. Ernest J. Stevens was indicted on criminal charges together with his father, James W. Stevens, a victim of apoplexy, and Raymond W., who committed suicide several days ago.

(Associated Press.)

Jesse H. Jones, a director of the reconstruction corporation, said yesterday there was nothing his organization could do about charges made in Chicago by Ernest J. Stevens, former vice president of the Illinois Life Insurance Co., that the R. F. C. was responsible for the failure of that company.

"Mr. Stevens can make whatever charges he wishes," Jones said. "I don't know whether he applied for the $5,000,000 loan. Perhaps he did. And perhaps it was turned down, all or in part. It isn't at all unusual for such applications to be turned down, is it?"

Habitual Girl Truant Found Beaten to Death

Chicago, March 30 (A.P.).—Seventeen-year-old Violet Ganschow, a truant from high school since December, was found beaten to death in a roadside ditch today near suburban Palatine, where she lived.

In her purse police found a list of New Year's resolutions in which she pledged herself to "keep on the straight path" and "be good to mother and father." Her parents said Viola had left for school in Palatine every day, but her teachers said she never reached the classrooms. How she had spent her days for three months was a mystery.

POLICE RESCUE MAN SURROUNDED BY MOB

Battle Over Highway Work in Minnesota Leads to Wounding.

Virginia, Minn., March 30 (A.P.).—A crowd of angry farmers that besieged John Wyberg in his farm home at Markham, near here, after he shot one of their number during a dispute over road work, died tonight on the approach of police.

Wyberg, his wife and son, all armed, had held off the crowd for several hours, under threats to shoot any one who approached the place.

Since early in February trouble has occurred among county road workers in the Markham district. On two different occasions several men were arrested by deputies, once charged with rioting and a second time with unlawful assemblage. On February 26 four deputies were injured when they engaged in a fight with farmers when they attempted to block clearing of roads.

The trouble involves the labor problems between County Commissioner Victor Koski, of Virginia, and a group identified as the "Unemployment Council of Markham." The group has demanded authority to distribute road relief work in the district, but Commissioner Koski has refused such powers.

Charges against several of the men arrested still are pending, while fines and jail sentences were imposed on those arrested in the first disturbance last February.

Two New York Ballot Officers Are Sentenced

New York, March 30 (A.P.).—Jack Pleva and Harry J. Schwartz, who were convicted of conspiring to certify false returns in the November elections, were sentenced today to serve sentences of a year and a day in the Northeastern Federal Penitentiary in Pennsylvania. They were also fined $1 each.

Pleva was a Democratic election inspector and Schwartz a Republican inspector. They were the first to be tried of more than 100 election officials indicted since the November elections by county and Federal grand juries.

Search Abandoned For Fish Schooner

135,000 Miles Covered by Coast Guard During Futile Hunt.

New York, March 30 (A.P.).—Commander P. F. Roach, of the Coast Guard, announced today that one of the greatest searches ever conducted by the Coast Guard for a missing vessel has been abandoned.

Coast Guard cutters which had covered approximately 135,000 square miles of the Atlantic Ocean, in search of the auxiliary fishing schooner Mary, were called off after a conference between Commander Roach and B. F. Mullins, of New Bedford, Mass., owner of the missing boat.

The Mary, 75 feet long, has been sought since March 18. With nine men aboard the schooner, whose home port was New Bedford, left Nantucket, Mass., February 27 for the fishing banks and was last reported March 8 about 25 miles off Georges Shoals, between Newfoundland and Greenland. Apparently she was homeward bound at that time. After allowing ample time for her arrival, Mullins reported her missing on March 18 and the search was begun.

Secret Alabama Juror Book Comes to Court

Decatur, Ala., March 30 (A.P.).—The big red book, in which names of prospective jurymen are kept, today was brought into court as defense counsel sought to quash the venire drawn for the trial of Haywood Patterson, Chattanooga Negro, indicted with eight others in the "Scottsboro case" on charges of attacking two white girls.

Attorneys said it probably was the first time in the history of the State that a jury roll, a secret record under Alabama statutes, had been brought into court as evidence for any purpose.

NAZIS, WARNED, SET ON PLAN OF BOYCOTT

Threat Has Had No Visible Effect on Propagandists, Goebbels Declares.

Berlin, March 30 (A.P.).—Despite warnings from business, industrial and financial circles that a boycott against the Jews may prove to be a two-edged sword, National Socialist Party headquarters seem determined to begin a nation-wide boycott at 10 a. m. Saturday, as scheduled.

The newspaper Angriff, edited by Joseph Goebbels, government propaganda chief, said tonight the threat of a boycott "has had no visible effect up to now on Jewish instigators of atrocity reports published abroad."

"On the contrary," said Angriff, "in some sections of the American press Germany's countermeasures are being answered with a renewed demand for a boycott of German goods."

The newspaper seemed particularly galled by assertions in some New York newspapers that the Nazis would refrain from carrying out the boycott threat. Promptly at 10 a. m. on Saturday, said Angriff, "the attack on this atrocity propaganda and on the brazen lies of the Jewry of the world begins."

The editorial described the interim before beginning the boycott as a respite to the Jews. If it passes unused, "world Jewry will receive a blow from which it will not easily recover. It will learn to feel what it means to declare war on Germany's national elevation."

The authorities at Breslau ordered all Jews to turn in their passports, making travel for them impossible. The chief of police said the object of this order was "to prevent the Jews from circulating atrocity stories."

(Associated Press.)

After a second visit of prominent American Jews to the State Department there were indications last night that the American Government will employ its influence quietly and in neighborly fashion to avert the economic war scheduled to be opened against Jews in Germany tomorrow.

While officials declined to say whether any diplomatic action was being taken, Undersecretary Phillips in reply to questions said the whole subject is being considered carefully.

Late yesterday Phillips received Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, honorary president of the Jewish Congress, and two companions who came to request that the Government use its good offices in averting the boycott.

Members of the delegation, who spoke freely to reporters when they visited the department last week in connection with reports of violence against Jews in Germany, declined to comment on their call yesterday, lending force to the belief that efforts will be made to move quietly. With Wise were Bernard S. Deutsch, also of New York, president of the congress, and Max Rhoade, its Washington representative.

Chileans Alarmed Over U. S. Warship

People Think Indianapolis' Cruise Due to Dispute Over Nitrate.

Santiago, Chile, March 30 (A.P.).—Residents of the town of Tongoi, near Coquimbo, have reported that two men-of-war which they believed to be the U. S. S. Indianapolis and a United States destroyer were in the vicinity of that town until yesterday morning when they steamed south. The public was alarmed in view of the situation between Chile and the United States over the nitrate issue.

(Associated Press.)

Washington officials were amused yesterday at reported alarm in Santiago, Chile, over the appearance of the United States cruiser Indianapolis and the destroyer Babbitt.

They pointed out it had been announced in November the cruiser, which was only then commissioned, would make a "shake down" cruise down the West Coast to test equipment. The destroyer, they said, had been sent along to assist with maneuvers.

Cleric Disappoints Crowd at Hearing

Indianan Fails to Tell of Alleged Attack on Teacher, 18.

Muncie, Ind., March 30 (A.P.).—A disappointed crowd filed from the courtroom here this afternoon without having heard the Rev. G. Lemuel Conway give his version of the automobile ride last December during which he is alleged to have attempted to assault Miss Helen Huffman, 18-year-old Sunday school teacher.

Defense attorneys had indicated they would bring the day's court session to a climax with the deposed pastor of the Madison Street Methodist Episcopal Church occupying the witness chair. When court adjourned however, they said they were uncertain when the minister would be called.

The courtroom crowd, however heard from a neighbor of the Huffman family. The neighbor, Mrs. Harriet Perdue, was called by defense attorneys in their effort to show there was some animosity existing toward Mr. Conway prior to the alleged attempted attack.

Spanish Noblemen Lose Pay Petition for Lands

Madrid, March 30 (A.P.).—The institute of agrarian reform today rejected petitions from the Marquis De Font Alba, the Dukes of Penaranda, Arion and Tamames, and the Counts Alange and De Bornos, who sought to prevent their rural properties being expropriated by the republic without indemnization.

moneys spent by the individual States in the three months prior to receiving the Federal donation.

Limitation on Loans.

No State could receive more than 15 per cent of the total. The same limitation was applied to the $300,000,000 loan act, but this was repealed earlier this week to permit Illinois, which had exhausted its allotment, to borrow more.

Only two Democrats—Bailey, North Carolina, and Gore, Oklahoma—voted against the bill, which was sponsored by Senators Wagner (Democrat), New York; Costigan (Democrat), Colorado, and LaFollette (Republican), Wisconsin.

Fifteen Republicans also voted against the bill, while 42 Democrats, 12 Republicans and 1 Farmer-Labor senator, Shipstead, Minnesota, favored it.

Warning that the Government was embarking on the "dole" was issued from the Republican side, while Democrats replied the measure was an emergency one to run only for two years.

Sent to President.

President Roosevelt's reforestation proposal returned to him yesterday from Congress in the form of a measure that needed only his signature to enact into law its provisions for putting 250,000 men to work.

Congress completed its work on the legislation yesterday when the Senate in short order accepted the minor amendments added to the bill Wednesday by the House.

PARIS WOULD DELAY JUNE DEBT PAYMENT

Moratorium Plea to Precede Negotiations About Winter Default.

Paris, March 30 (U.P.).—France will ask President Roosevelt to declare a moratorium on the French war debt installment due in mid-June in order to permit negotiations and payment of the defaulted December 15 payment of nearly $20,000,000, it was indicated today.

The government apparently is involved in important new tactics in its efforts to get approval in the Chamber of Deputies of its desire to pay up and restore damaged relations with the United States.

If Mr. Roosevelt agrees to a moratorium on the June installment, it was believed, Premier Edouard Daladier, supporting the pay-up scheme, could go before the Chamber and ask for authority to pay the December installment immediately.

Otherwise, however, the Chamber has given strong indication it will not approve payment until Washington agrees to invite France to the war debts conversations, to which Britain and other governments that met their December payments are asked.

Former Premier Edouard Herriot, himself a victim of the war debts problem—gave intimation of the new plan of action. Writing in the Ere Nouvelle, he said:

"The government appears prepared to negotiate to obtain assurances from the United States that a moratorium will be accorded on the mid-June installment, at least for the duration of the world economic conference. I can only approve this procedure, the success of which seems subordinate to the demand that the Chamber approve payment of the mid-December installment."

Herriot's approval of these tactics indicated the former premier was losing hope that the Chamber would agree to pay before Mr. Roosevelt makes some definite gesture toward downward revision.

Vast Quantity of Milk Lost and Many Are Hurt

Rochester, N. Y., March 30 (A.P.).—Two major clashes between striking dairy farmers and State police, and a score of minor skirmishes that resulted in thousands of gallons of milk being poured to waste, marked the second day of conflict between independent producers and farmers supplying the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association.

Two of the strikers were injured seriously and scores were nursing cuts and bruises.

One Killed, 20 Hurt In Chemical Blasts

Small Residences Ruined in London Suburb by Explosion Series.

Mitcham, England, March 30 (A.P.).—Scenes reminiscent of a war-time air raid occurred in this London suburb today following a series of explosions in a chemical works in which one person was killed and twenty injured, some seriously.

Most of the damage and casualties occurred in nearby streets, where small dwellings were ruined.

Walls were blown out, floors collapsed and inhabitants rushed to the street screaming. Many were cut by flying glass.

SEVERAL ARE KILLED IN SOUTHERN STORM

dren; Jones' sister-in-law, Johnny Robinson.

Communication with Ringgold, a few miles north of Hall Summit, was out.

Darkness and softening of roads under a drenching rain made work of caring for the injured difficult. Shattered communication lines prevented speedy identification of all the victims.

All available hospital accommodations at Shelbyville were crowded. Physicians rushed from Center and San Augustine to treat the injured Texans.

El Dorado, Ark., oil company officials said the storm damaged several small oil field towns. Many derricks were reported overturned within a 25-mile radius of El Dorado.

More than twenty Negro children were injured when the storm wrecked a schoolhouse near Shelbyville, and a hasty survey of the area showed that 20 or 30 white persons were injured.

"Came From Nowhere."

The same storm previously had passed northwest of San Augustine, injuring four persons in the Lane community. A second tornado struck 10 miles west of San Augustine several hours later, wrecking several houses and injuring a girl.

Witnesses said the Shelbyville storm "came from nowhere" and swept across Shelby County farm lands, uprooting trees and shattering frame houses as it passed.

At Henderson, in the east Texas oil field, the windstorm caused some property damage and the low-hanging clouds produced a darkness which necessitated the use of lights on motor cars and in buildings.

H. K. Webb, president of the Webb Oil Co., of Minneapolis, Minn., and Mark Hurd, his pilot, were slightly injured in a forced landing near Dallas. Their plane crashed into a telephone pole. They continued to San Antonio, Tex., by train.

Heavy rain in Dallas amounted to more than 1 inch in about fifteen minutes. The storm passed quickly and at nightfall the sky was clear.

A violent windstorm struck a section 6 miles east of Mabank, Kaufman County, Tex., injuring Mr. and Mrs. Will Gilfoy and their two children. Their home was demolished. The storm smashed through an area 5 miles long and half a mile wide, unroofing houses and blowing down trees.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

MRS. MARY RANDALL, 5602 Thirty-ninth street, Prohibition, is Washington's leading jig-saw puzzle devotee, in fact she's champion. She won that title last night at the Federal Diary's jig-saw puzzle tournament at the Kennedy-Warren. Mrs. Randall, who started the same time as the other contestants, 8:27 p. m., finished officially at 10:37 p. m.

Holding the last piece in her hand ten minutes, Mrs. Randall finally placed the missing piece into place. She was so clearly in the lead that she seemed to prefer to wait until the other contestants neared their goal before completing the picture, "Picket's Charge at Gettysburg," Jig-of-the-Week puzzle, manufactured by the University Distributing Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Mrs. Alice Atkinson, Agriculture, was second, a few moments later.

Helen F. Taylor, G. A. O., ranked third.

Mrs. B. W. Townsend, Agriculture, won fourth prize.

The contest was unique, in that every contestant won a prize. Each entrant was awarded the puzzle he or she worked and additional puzzles were awarded each contestant.

"This is the hardest one I've ever encountered."

"I'm where I can't make the pieces fit."

"The first hundred pieces are the hardest."

These are only a few of the many expressions heard as the contest progressed.

Too much praise can not be given Mrs. Elizabeth Coleman, managing director of the Kennedy-Warren, for her delightful courtesies toward the guests, including the reconditioned air in the ballroom, bright lights installed for the occasion and other thoughtful attentions.

Many of the contestants expressed hope that other contests of the kind will be held soon. Well, we'll see. Photos will be published tomorrow.

WHAT would beer be without its pretzel? When you call for your first glass or bottle of beer be sure you specify that the pretzel is made of high-protein content flours, since the flours of low-protein content are not as shapely nor as large.

Accept this information from J. H. Shollenberger, marketing economist, and his assistant, Walter K. Marshall, grain division, Agriculture. They know their bends and curves in pretzels. So, if you are bent on enjoying your beer, enjoy your pretzel with it.

You really can not enjoy your pretzel as much unless you know the flour contains sufficient protein. The "clear" flours, when used alone, tend to produce pretzels of poor outside and inside color, of inferior taste and of uncertain keeping qualities.

As you might suspect, our neighbor, Pennsylvania, leads in production of pretzels and appears to have been the home of the North American pretzel, although now the salty curly-cues are manufactured from coast to coast, principally in the northern half of the country.

According to the 1925 census, approximately 27,527,088 pounds of pretzels were made by bakers in that year. They represented a value of $5,000,000.

We suggest a Know-Your-Pretzel-Better Week, starting April 7. To know one's pretzel better, commit these facts to memory:

1—The pretzel should be hard. 2—It should have a rich, pleasing flavor. 3—It should be smooth, streaked pale yellow, or scorched in appearance. 4—It should have a white inside appearance as opposed to a carmelized inside appearance. 5—The texture should be crisp, so that it does not become doughy in the mouth.

If it has these qualities, you can look it straight between the twists and say:

"Here is a pretzel."

FROM the hand of Representative Deen, Georgia, comes H. R. 4361, a bill to let by contract all carrier service in cities, towns and villages served by the Postoffice Department. And while it has been referred to the Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads, where it probably will die, it is an example of the plans in the minds of the lawmakers.

This means one thing. Civil Service would not apply. It probably would save the Government a few million more a year but the postal workers who are now protected by retirement and a steady salary would be thrown into the great hopper to scramble for their jobs, catch-as-catch-can, and undoubtedly at far less than they will make, even under the new economy act.

Rural mail carriers, particularly in the South and Southwest, where States and counties pyramid gasoline taxes, report they can not break even on the allowance paid them for the use of their vehicles. Three and one-half cents a mile is below the actual cost of maintaining cars and trucks and hundreds of carriers are losing in the venture.

Speaking of Government in private enterprise, here we have a proposal of private business in Government.

WILLIAM MOTT STEUART, 3725 Morrison street, Director of the Census, tomorrow will be retired after 48 years 5 months and 21 days' Federal service, during which time he rose from messenger boy to his present important position. This period includes 40 years 2 months in the Bureau of the Census.

W. M. Steuart

The 1930 census enumeration will remain as a monument to Mr. Steuart's service and direction. That year figures and facts on population, agriculture, horticulture, unemployment, manufacturing, mines and quarries, wholesale and retail distribution were included. One hundred and twenty-five thousand enumerators were put to work, as well as about 10,000 clerks in Washington. It was by far the greatest undertaking of its kind ever undertaken in the United States or any other country.

Born in Corpus Christi, Tex., October 2, 1861, Mr. Steuart received his education in the public schools of Maryland and the District of Columbia, received his LL. M. and LL. B. degrees from Columbian (now George Washington) University. He was admitted to the bar in 1884. He practiced here, in Maryland and in Detroit.

In turn, he had been associated with the Census of Manufacturers, chief of the division, 1890 and 1900; chief statistician for manufacturers, Bureau of Census, 1902-1917; secretary and statistician, U. S. Tariff Commission, 1917-1919; assistant director of the census, 1919-1924. He became director May 10, 1921.

Mr. Steuart was chosen by President Hoover July 30, 1930, as ex-officio member of the Commission on Unemployment.

My Dear Mr. Diary: Referring to your comments on the impending pay cut for Federal workers, may we add an observation or two culled from a span of years spent in Government service.

No local news receives swifter and more widespread publicity than facts pertaining to Federal salaries. If a change for the better is announced, rents, commodity and clothing prices leap forthwith to meet the increased stipends of the workers. Is any opportunity afforded Uncle Sam's employes to profit, even for a single month, by reason of slightly increased income? Are they thus permitted to build up a reserve with which to meet emergencies? Not so.

By the same token, if a turn for the worse is noted and decreases are ordered, now I ask whether rents and commodity costs drop simultaneously. Verily not so. Rents, like the laws of the Medes and Persians, hold fast—at least until tenants have nothing left with which to pay for their dwellings. Then a concession or two is meted out and after a period of time prices generally ease downward, but mark you, not until the wage-earners have struggled to meet their obligations and many, many times failed.

Furthermore, when increases were granted a few years back how were they adjusted? People in the lower grades were increased $60 a year, in the middle grades, $100, and in higher grades the increases were in material amounts. Now cuts must be made, and how are they arrived at? In amounts commensurate with the increases referred to above? The $1,000 workers are cut in exactly the same ratio as members of Congress!

Being one of the lower order, however, one must just stiffen his chin and face toward the sun! Is it not so?

A FEDERAL WORKER.

P. S.—Do we understand that we are invited to join you to witness the next parade?

Yes, you're invited to witness the parades. The Diary keeps open house, Liberty Hall to all.

EXTRA! EXTRA!!

Newsboys were hollering "Extra! Extra!! President Roosevelt gr-r-r, br-r-r," etc.

Government employes Tuesday night, aroused from their evening relaxation, appeared at doorways, windows and on the street to get extras, visioning stories of another volley fired at the President.

Imagine, if you will, a headline reading "ROOSEVELT ORDERS PAY CUT." And they paid good money to learn that.

Incidentally, the "extra" was not issued by The Washington Post.

3 BANKERS ON STAND AT WADE BALL TRIAL

Explain Transfer of Funds as Defense Attorneys Open Their Case.

Consuming a greater part of the day in the case of E. Wade Ball, former Arlington County treasurer, on trial in Circuit Court on charges of failure to turn over county funds totaling $515,959, defense counsel opened its case yesterday by introducing testimony by bankers showing that large sums were withdrawn from the defendant's personal account in their banks and transferred to the treasurer's accounts in the various banks.

Those testifying were B. A. Bowles, vice president of the Potomac Savings Bank of Washington; H. W. Burnside, assistant cashier of the Riggs National Bank of Washington, and Arthur Warfield, cashier of the First National Bank of Alexandria.

While the defense showed by witnesses' testimony that funds were taken from the defendant's personal account and placed in the treasurer's account on cross-examination conducted by Collins Denny, jr., assistant attorney general of Virginia, for prosecution, showed that a number of notes had been discounted during 1929 and 1930 and placed to the personal account and later in the treasurer's account to meet the heavy withdrawals as brought out by the defense.

It was further shown on cross-examination that at various times the balance in the banks from which funds were taken from the personal account and placed in the treasurer's account was not sufficient to meet checks drawn prior to discount of notes.

The testimony of the bankers followed the introduction by defense counsel of a number of witnesses who testified as to the manner of living and character of the defendant.

Those called were: Dr. W. C. Wejburn, Dr. H. C. Corbett, Dr. Ralph Quick, Dr. T. M. Talbott, Hoyt Johnston, W. W. Wheelock, Carl Raymond, Carl Swenson, Harry K. Green and Luther C. Dodd.

The case will be resumed at 10 a. m. today, with representatives of the remaining six banks to be called.

Fleming Asks City Debts Be Upheld

Capital Banker Hostile to Bankruptcy Dodge by Municipalities.

(Associated Press.)

Opposition to proposals to extend Federal bankruptcy jurisdiction to municipalities and other State political subdivisions was voiced in a statements last night by a special committee of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Utilizing of Federal bankruptcy courts, as a way for distressed municipalities to obtain debt adjustments, was favored before the House Judiciary Committee, however, by a number of witnesses representing huge holders of city bonds.

The Chamber of Commerce committee, headed by Robert V. Fleming, Capital banker, urged that no action be taken that "destroys or impairs the integrity of municipal obligations."

TEACHERS DISCUSS LIVING STANDARDS

Legal Aspects of Question Outlined in Talk by Miss Borchardt.

A legislative program in the interest of maintenance of standards of living and work among the teaching profession was the subject of discussion last night at the annual supper meeting of the Washington Elementary Teachers Union, Local No. 27, held in the parlors of the Phyllis Wheatley Young Women's Christian Association. Miss Selma Borchardt discussed the legal aspects of the present critical position of the profession over the country.

She advocated close organization of the teaching group, such as existed here during the World War, for the purpose of watching legislation and shaping it, not only in interest of the various social groups, which the teacher contacts daily and represents, but also in interest of the teacher's own welfare.

Work of the American Federation of Labor, in this connection, its policies, North and South, and the difficulties which it contends with in advancement of those policies was discussed by Edward McGrady, who expressed himself as much interested in the DePriest amendment to the reforestation bill, which would insure no discrimination in employment under that measure, because of race, color or previous criminal record.

Others who spoke were Mrs. Mary Mason Jones, president of the union; Mrs. Marie Madre Marshall, Miss Anne Shoemaker, editor of the Progressive Education Association magazine; Albert W. Brooks, Charles M. Thomas, Mrs. Julia West Hamilton, Juanita P. Howard, Essie M. Jackson and Mrs. Anna Grice Galloway, principal of the Croome Settlement School. E. H. Lawson was toastmaster.

COURT BACKS POWER BOARD IN DAM CASE

Company Loses Injunction Plea, Holding Up New River Project.

Norfolk, Va., March 30 (A.P.).—The Power Commission's control over hydroelectric plants on nonnavigable streams under stipulated conditions was sustained in a decision handed down today by Federal Judge Luther B. Way, in dismissing an injunction bill of the Appalachian Electric Power Co.

The power company sought to restrain the commission from interfering with its project on New River.

The decision, regarded as far-reaching in its effect, specifically upheld the commission's authority to impose regulations on the Appalachian, through a standard license for the proposed power plant. The decision provided for recapture by the Government, supervision of the cost of the development, regulation of rates to be charged for power and the issuance and sale of securities, based on the proposed power development.

The court decreed that ownership of the banks of a stream did not give authority over beds and the flow.

Although agreeing with the power company that the New River is not navigable, the court ruled that the navigability of the Kanawha River, into which the New flows, might be affected by the development.

What effect the decision will have on the plans of the Appalachian has not been disclosed. For the project, on which the power company has announced an intention to spend some $3,000,000, a large acreage already has been purchased.

Keeping in Step With Men's Shoe Fashions

VARIETY OF STYLES FOR SPRING SHOES

Favor of Wearers Divided Between French and Custom Lasts.

That there is plenty of opportunity to gratify individual preference in the selection of men's shoes for spring is evidenced in the interest and variety of the styles, newly launched. The colors as well are comprehensive in scope, stressing, as they do, the importance of brown in an inclusive range of shades with black of minor importance but still a factor to be reckoned with.

For general wear the custom last with its pointed toe vies in importance with shoes built on the French last. Because of the broader toe that typifies this type of shoe, many men will choose them for their undoubted ease and comfort.

Some of the shoes are extremely simple, depending upon perfection of line for their appeal, while others employ a liberal use of decorative perforations for ornament.

Comes Into Its Own.

As spring advances to summer the sports shoe comes into its own. And every indication points to greater popularity for this type of shoe than ever before. Lightweight suits in both wool and cotton are certain to be of major importance, and the sports shoe is the logical choice to wear with this type of apparel for general service as well as for active sports.

White stands out as a particular favorite and there is a selection of models in wing tip or plain styles. Many are heavily trimmed with perforated designs. These shoes are developed in buckskin.

Takes Second Place.

While the black and white shoe is still featured it has more or less taken second place in favor of the combination of brown and white. The advancing season will find sports shoes of white buckskin with wing tip and heel foxing in brown calf of greater and greater importance. And it is logical that this should be so, as brown is always a favorite spring and summer shoe color and it is never more effective than when used in combination with white.

A number of shoes in lighter weight are presented—they will appeal especially to men who stress comfort in footwear above all else. Shoes of this type are certain to be cool and for this reason are an ideal choice for warm weather wear. However, for general service and for active sports shoes of the more typical designs described above are bound to be first in volume for spring and summer wear.

AMONG FOOTWEAR LEADERS

The summer shoe movement of 1933 had its inception at the meeting of the men's style committee of the National Shoe Retailers Association at its spring style meeting in New York City, October 31 to November 1, 1932.

Summer Shoes' Quality Should Excel Winter's

In connection with [illegible]ally summer footwear experts say that high quality is of far more importance than it is with heavier weight fall footwear, for the reason that to stand up it must have structural stamina to compensate for the lighter leather employed.

The matter of fitting, too, is of great importance in connection with the summer shoe, feet in hot weather usually calling for larger sizes. For example, shoe men affirm that larger sizes are more essential in San Antonio, Tex., than in Dallas, because the former gets hotter.

Motor Mechanics Fancy Shoe Leather Pockets

Peabody, Mass., March 30.—Tanners tell of the use of calf, good shoe leather, for facing pockets of trousers of motor mechanics, and that's another new use for leather. If these facings get soiled, when the wrench man reaches his greasy hand into his pocket for a nut, then the soil can be wiped off, like mud off shoes. Did any one ever hear tell of the cobbler who once did a thriving business patching pants with good sole leather?

Lynn, Mass.—The shoe strike in Lynn, which started February 27 and created a stoppage in all but a half dozen of the city's 62 factories, has apparently spent its force. According to a statement obtained from the Lynn Chamber of Commerce no less than 30 factories were operating March 1. The strike had the support of most business factors in Lynn.

Shoe retailers there had expressed a willingness to pay higher prices for shoes providing the increase was a reflection of higher wages in the factories.

LIGHTER MATERIALS USED FOR SUMMER

Several Shoe Styles Feature Ventilation as Comfort Becomes Keynote.

Comfort is the keynote for summer clothes, and when summer clothes are mentioned, everything from hats to shoes is considered. Men are no longer donning heavy looking, heat producing suits like they used to, but, as the mercury soars in the thermometer, they put on a linen or some other type of wash suit or a suit made from some sheer woolen. Straw hats or featherweight felts cover the cranium, underwear is the lightest and coolest obtainable, shirts and ties breathe the summer spirit, gossamer hose echoes this theme, while shoes conform with the whole outfit.

No longer do men put overcoats on their feet to roast their pedal extremities on sultry, sizzling days. Instead, they choose appropriate footwear that is light and cool looking and stylish as well. Shoes of this type for business may be classified in the following general types, the regular lasts in summer weights, ventilated, flexible sole, sports and close trimmed shoes.

Lighter Materials Used.

Regular lasts are in the same shapes as these worn during the winter, only lighter materials are used to make the shoes cooler, but at the same time this type of footwear gives excellent service if the materials used are of good quality.

Wing tip models of what might be described as being of neat appearance will be much worn this season, while the straight tip style will be in the majority. Both light brown and blacks will be very much in the sartorial picture, with special emphasis on the former, because they go better with a great many of the light colored suits than do the blacks.

The ventilated type is one with an air-cooled system. Punchings right through the uppers along the seams or other places provide a ventilating system that enables the moist hot air between the shoe and the foot to get out. These also come in a variety of styles, such as the wing tip, straight tip, with plain or perforated medallion in toe cap or plain toe models.

Flexible and Sports Shoes.

The flexible sole is a feature of many shoes worn not only in the summer but in the winter as well.

Custom often makes a fashion. It certainly has done a big job as regards the sports shoe. Primarily adopted for resort and country wear by the elite at the world's most famous places, this type of shoe has become popular on the streets with summer suits because of custom. All-white and white trimmed with brown or black are the outstanding general types.

In close trim classification come all shoes that have the shoes trimmed close to the uppers. In other words, there is very little extension to the sole on the sides.

"MEN versus SHOES"

"How much a man is like his shoes;
For instance, both a soul may lose.
Both have been tanned;
Both are made tight by cobblers;
Both are left and right;
Both need a mate to be complete;
And both are made to go on feet.

They both need heeling oft, and soled.
And both in time turn all to mold;
With shoes, the last is first;
With men, the first shall be last.
And when the shoes wear out, they're mended new.
When men wear out—they're mended, too.

They both are trod upon
And both will tread on others—nothing loth
Both have their ties, and both incline
When polished, in the world to shine;
And both peg out, and would you choose

Summer Footgear Becoming Popular

Men Find Lighter Weight Real Comfort During Hot Weather.

Summer shoes for men are not a theory. They are a fact. A fact that can be measured, weighed, felt. Here is an example. One scale is weighted with a pair of winter shoes. On the other lightly rests a summer pair. The difference in weight is 6 ounces—and if you think that nearly half a pound doesn't make any difference to your feet in the good hot summer time, just try to remember how often your "dogs" bark in anger from June to September.

A much more extreme contrast could have been illustrated. In some leathers and lasts the difference between the weight of summer and winter shoes runs as high as a pound and more!

Summer shoes—for ordinary as well as sports wear—is right in line with the change in the clothing habits of the men of this country—a change in the direction of appropriateness to the season. In the past few years there has been a really tremendous increase in the wearing of summer weights in hats, underwear, socks—and suits. Medical men are much pleased with all this. They say it means better health in the trying summer months. And the ladies—they have less reason to call men silly idiots for sweltering in winter clothes when the thermometer is doing the high jump.

The last step in completing the summer dress ensemble is summer shoes. Five types have been approved by the men's style committee of the National Shoe Retailers Association. They are regular, close trim, ventilated, flexible sports. Leading retailers of men's shoes have them—fresh, stylish, right. You'll like them.

Wing Tips Capture Fancy of Wearers

All-Brown Buckskin Seems Most Popular Worn in Palm Beach.

Palm Beach, Fla., March 30.—Jumping from head to foot, the all-white buckskin shoe in wing tip style has taken many steps forward in the rank of footwear styles. This is one of the leading models this season. Plain toe shoes, which have been so much worn and are still seen in great numbers, appear to be bowing in favor of the wing tip shoe. These white shoes, along with straight tip models, all have blackened leather or rubber soles.

In two-tone shoes, it is all brown and white with the best dressed men at Palm Beach. Wing tips continue to be preferred over straight tip and saddle strap styles. With the masses at the races, black and whites are on a par with brown and white shoes.

Probably the smartest and most popular shoe with the inner circle at Palm Beach is the all-brown buckskin shoe. Plain toe, wing and straight-tip are all in favor. Some of these have crepe rubber soles. A few gray buckskin shoes were also seen.

SPORTS FOOTWEAR POPULARITY GAINS

Men's Outdoor Clothes Call for Appripraite Shoes This Summer.

So strongly sportswear conscious has the average American male become that we are seeing not only more odd jackets and trousers but a greater diversity of styles in this type of clothing.

As a logical development, there is more variety to the styles of summer shoes that go with these many different ensembles. Men like to wear sports shoes for many reasons, but chiefly because they are in fashion, and from all appearances more sports shoes are being seen this year than in the past few seasons.

Two Outstanding Styles.

Probably the two most outstanding styles considered from the standpoint of numerical popularity, are the all-white and the two-tone wing tip shoes. While most men prefer the all-white shoe in the plain toe model, with black rubber or blackened soles, increasing numbers of well-dressed men are showing a preference for this white footwear in the wing tip design. And a great many are also going in for the straight tip shoe, also in all-white.

The wing tip model in two tones has been such a strong favorite not only with men at fashionable resorts, but with the man in the street all over the country that it is still very firmly entrenched for 1933. So popular has been the black and white combination that the trend is veering very definitely toward brown and white.

In accounting for this trend, it might be well to consider that black and whites have been done to death in some places, and also that men at such resorts as Southampton, Newport and other places are partial to the brown and white combination.

Reddish Brown Shoe Is Smart.

One of the smartest looking shoes, and one that is coming to the front quite rapidly, is the all-brown buckskin model in sports footwear. Coming in wing, straight or plain tip, this dark reddish brown sports shoe usually has a sole of medium to heavy weight. Its rough texture causes it to harmonize well with rough finished sports clothes, and its deep tone often acts as an accent or contrasting color with those of the trousers and jacket.

Other shoes that will be seen in considerable numbers are the saddle strap in two tones, the bicolored straight tip, the gray buckskin, certain shoes with holes punched right through the uppers and woven shoes The saddle strap shoe is especially popular with students at some of the leading Eastern universities like Princeton, Yale and Harvard, whereas the straight tip two-tone shoes is best liked by some of the men seen at the leading resorts.

Milwaukee Barters Shoes for Produce

Labor and Commodity Exchange Finds Way to Use Idle Factory.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 30.—The Unemployed Labor and Commodity Exchange, Dalton Clarke, president, has secured the use of a six-story building here in which to conduct its affairs. Among the items to be exchanged are shoes, the first samples of which were exchanged March 1. They were manufactured by a shop which had been closed down, but which now has offered to operate on a barter basis.

"This is very important," Mr. Clarke stated, "because one of the things the farmer most wants is shoes. With this factory, capable of producing 100 pairs of men's, women's and children's shoes per day, we can fill the needs of the farmer, bartering shoes for produce."

Others besides farmers can, of course, make exchanges also.

If there is one thing that all men hate more than another it is to be absurd in what they wear. . . . But there really isn't any fundamental difference between wearing winter shoes with a summer suit and wearing a four-in-hand with evening clothes. Men are learning this, just as they learned that it was ridiculous to wear heavy, cumbersome winter clothing in the summer. . . . Winter shoes with summer clothing? Heavyweights in the same ring with lightweights? The eternal fitness of things cries, Treason! Comfort shouts, Monstrous! Style sneers, Absurd! Common sense dictates, Out!

STATES AND THE DISTRICT.

The Senate has passed the bill granting $500,000,000 to the States. It is asked to pass the bill denying to the District of Columbia the money necessary to meet the needs of Washington as the Federal City.

Gratuities are to be handed to States that are capable of raising revenue to relieve their own people. These gratuities represent tax money taken from all the people. But when it becomes necessary to provide emergency relief in the District of Columbia, Congress requires the taxpayers of the District to foot the bill.

Senator Walsh deserves the thanks of the District for insisting that the Government shall assume its just share of the cost of maintaining the Federal City. Persistent efforts are made to shuffle off upon local taxpayers the share which should be borne by the Government. The new Budget Director falls into this error. But the Senate has stood firmly for a just allotment of the cost of District government.

The District of Columbia pays in income taxes more than is paid by any of the group of smaller States. As a supporter of the Federal Treasury the District ranks high among the States. But in the maintenance of the seat of the Federal Government, all the States combined pay an insignificant amount. The District taxpayers carry the heavy part of the load, in addition to paying income taxes toward the support of the Federal Government.

As matters stand, Congress is taking revenue made up in part by income taxpayers of the District of Columbia and distributing it as largess to the States, while requiring the District to finance its own relief measures. It is then compelling the District taxpayers to carry the major part of the cost of maintaining the National Capital, thus giving another gratuity to the States at the expense of residents of Washington.

The gross injustice of the arrangement whereby the Federal Government is enabled to shift to others the larger part of the cost of maintaining the National Capital is apparent to any one who will examine the matter. The $500,000,000 gratuity bill adds to this injustice.

It is proposed that excessive reductions shall be made in appropriations for schools and other necessities in the District of Columbia. Taxpayers are willing to pay for these necessities. They are not asking for a gratuity from the $500,000,000 relief fund. They are willingly paying for District emergency relief, without a cent of contribution from the Treasury of the United States. They object, however, to paying the Federal Government's share of the expense of maintaining this District as the National Capital. They ask that the Federal Government pay one-half of the cost, as was the rule from 1878 to 1925 or thereabouts. It was a fair rule, and was changed only because certain members of the House sought to make political capital in their districts by trying to make it appear that the Federal Treasury was victimized by the taxpayers of the District of Columbia.

Once the 50-50 rule was broken, Congress cut down the Federal Government's contribution time after time, until now the local taxpayers pay nearly six-sevenths of the total cost of maintaining the National Capital. Included in this expense are the items called for by a National Capital as distinct from a municipality.

Congress has no right to make a gift of public money to the States. It has no right to shift upon an infinitesimal proportion of the nation's taxpayers the major load of financing the Capital of the United States.

SETTING ASIDE THE LAW.

One sentence in President Roosevelt's executive order setting up the Farm Credit Administration is giving students of the Constitution a good deal of trouble. The President abolishes with a stroke of the pen the authority of the Farm Board and its successor, the Farm Credit Administration, to engage in stabilization activities. The executive order reads as follows:

> The functions vested in the Federal Farm Board by section 9 of the Agricultural Marketing act are abolished, except that such functions shall continue to be exercised to such extent and for such time as may be necessary to permit the orderly winding up of the activities of stabilization corporations heretofore recognized under authority of such section.

In effect, President Roosevelt has repealed a section of a law adopted by Congress and never repudiated by that body. There is no question that Congress intended to give him this power. The act providing for reorganization of the Government service specifically authorizes him to "abolish the whole or any part of any executive agency and/or the functions thereof." The question is whether Congress may, under the Constitution, transfer such a grant of power to the Executive.

This section seems to be out of harmony with the other acts that have been passed, giving President Roosevelt emergency powers to deal with economic conditions. The economy act, for example, repealed virtually all the veterans' legislation on the statute books and set up a new law by which the President will be governed in alloting pensions and benefits. The emergency banking act repealed measures that were inconsistent with its provisions. But the reorganization act purports to give the President power to repeal laws.

It may be inaccurate to say that the President has repealed a section of the agricultural marketing act, but he has certainly nullified it. The law may remain on the statute books, technically speaking, but if the authority of an executive agency to administer that law has been taken away, the effect is the same as repeal. In this case it happens that no one objects to the abolition of the Farm Board's authority to buy and sell produce with a view to fixing prices. But the law authorizes the President to abolish any executive functions. What would prevent a President from abolishing the functions of the Federal Reserve Board or the Interstate Commerce Commission, if he should so desire? It is clear that the President has been given authority to defeat the will of Congress as expressed in legislation, regardless of whether the measures which he throws into the scrap heap remain technically on the statute books.

Sooner or later the Supreme Court may be called upon to decide whether Congress may, under its constitutional powers, bestow such a phenomenal grant of authority upon the President.

A UNIFIED BANK SYSTEM.

The opinion of Walter Wyatt, chief counsel of the Federal Reserve Board, to the effect that Congress has the power to drive State banks out of existence, comes at an appropriate moment. Leaders in Congress probably do not doubt the authority of that body to set up a unified banking system, but they hide behind supposed constitutional inhibitions to avoid a disagreeable task. The effect of Mr. Wyatt's brief is to throw upon Congress the full responsibility for remedying the present basic weakness of the banking system.

Prior to 1866 the currency was in a state of confusion. In that year Congress imposed a tax of 10 per cent on the circulating notes of State banks, thus driving them out of circulation. By this means the currency was unified and brought entirely under control of the Federal Government. The Supreme Court pronounced this act constitutional.

It was anticipated that this act would drive a large number of State banks into the national system and thus constitute the first step toward unified banking. Mr. Wyatt notes that many State banks did obtain national charters until a way was found to circumvent the law. Checks began to circulate in large numbers in place of the former State bank notes. Today it is estimated that more than 90 per cent of all transactions are conducted by checks. Because of this fact State banks again exert a powerful influence upon the most important circulating medium.

Checks frequently prove to be an ineffective medium of exchange, Mr. Wyatt points out, because banks on which they are drawn may fail. Congress has exclusive control over the medium of exchange under the Constitution. Hence, Mr. Wyatt concludes that "Congress has the right to bring the act of July 13, 1866, up to date by making the tax applicable to checks drawn on State banks." In view of the fact that 10,000 banks have failed since 1920, tying up nearly $5,000,000,000 in deposits, this is no idle argument.

The proposed tax on checks of State banks is only one of three ways in which those institutions could be forced into the national system or out of business, in Mr. Wyatt's opinion. The power to create the Federal Reserve system and the national banking system includes the power to preserve them and to promote their efficiency. The stability of these vital agencies of the Government is threatened by the operation of bucket shops in the disguise of banks. The Government can not enforce all the regulations that are essential to sound banking because the States offer more liberal terms and banks are inclined to seek State charters. Competition among 49 different banking systems threatens the stability of them all. Congress undoubtedly has authority to save the country from such a financial catastrophe.

As a last resort Mr. Wyatt contends that Congress could unify the banking structure under its interstate commerce powers. The existence of a banking system which permits thousands of failures in a year constitutes unwarranted obstruction to interstate commerce.

Mr. Wyatt has made a notable contribution to the movement for sound banking. It is the unwillingness of Congress to act, and not any lack of authority that has allowed the banking structure to develop such deplorable weakness. Congress is made up of State politicians who fear reaction against themselves if State banking should be abolished. It may be too much to expect that Congress will immediately exercise its powers to eliminate State banks. But definite steps toward unification must be taken if depositors' funds are to be safeguarded. A drive to force all commercial banks into the Federal Reserve system would be a logical first step. It would not then be difficult to require all commercial banks to take out Federal charters.

FEDERAL BUDGET PRACTICES.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has performed a notable service during the last year in its special studies and reports on the management of the Federal budget. Several months ago a committee submitted comprehensive recommendations on taxation and revenue control. Yesterday the second phase of the problem was treated in a report urging drastic reforms in the coordination and management of expenditures. The two reports together present a more impressive picture of the prevailing laxity and confusion in Federal finances that has come to public notice in a decade.

The last intensive non-partisan study of this complex problem resulted in the establishment of the Bureau of the Budget, under President Harding. The new approach well may lead to the completion of the great reform begun at that time.

The central difficulty emphasized in the report on expenditures arises from the fact that, because of the scattering of committee work in the House of Representatives, Congress never can achieve in the course of its appropriation sessions a clear panoramic view of revenues and expenditures as essentially one great problem of many parts. Even under the budget bureau plan, each supply bill is handled by a separate subcommittee in the House. A more perfect coordination of fiscal labors on Capitol Hill must be achieved before efficient Federal management can be realized.

To this end, the committee recommends that the President "should formulate and present to Congress a complete fiscal program." Secondly, some arrangement should be established to maintain a sound and business-like relationship between the revenue-raising activities of the Ways and Means Committee and the Appropriations Committee in the House. The report makes the point that no other large corporate or governmental body in the world attempts, as does the United States under prevailing budget fiscal practices, to authorize the year's expenditures without up-to-the-minute knowledge as to what the income will be for the period.

The simple fundamentals of living and spending so trenchantly set forth by the late lamented Micawber still govern this rowdy old workaday world: when income is exhausted, spending stops.

Congress must apply that rule effectively before permanent economic recovery can be achieved. After 144 years of drifting and experimentation in fiscal control, the United States is old enough and wise enough and strong enough to face these facts.

SLAPPING THE UNEMPLOYED.

An unwarranted attack was made before the immigration committee of the House of Representatives on the executive order under which 500,000 would-be immigrants have been kept out of the United States in the last three years. Some congressmen are annoyed because action was taken by President Hoover under existing law without giving them a chance to chew it over for a couple of years. But every man who has a job is thankful to President Hoover for barring cheap alien labor in this period of widespread unemployment.

Representative Dickstein is attempting to push through a resolution revoking the executive order under which aliens likely to become public charges are excluded. It is argued that President Hoover exceeded his authority in issuing such an order, but the law clearly gives him power to deny visas to immigrants who might not be able to support themselves here. Discretion is left with the President as to when this ban should be invoked.

If those who favor an influx of immigration wish to have the order set aside, why don't they go directly to President Roosevelt? It may be assumed that Mr. Roosevelt is as much in favor of reserving jobs for American citizens as his predecessor was. Apparently that is the reason why an emotional appeal is being made to Congress.

The basis on which revocation of the Hoover order is asked is that it has subjected some prospective immigrants to hardships. Nothing is said about the hardships that would be incurred by American citizens if laborers accustomed to lower standards were allowed to migrate to this country during these hard times and compete for jobs with the army of 12,000,000 unemployed men and women.

Revocation of the order which keeps out alien jobseekers would be an insult to American labor. The first obligation of the Government is to the American people who support and defend it. If the voice of the whole people could suddenly become articulate on this issue, Representative Dickstein would hide his resolution in a pigeon hole and beg the public to forget it.

D. C. taxpayers are now running neck 'n neck with Democratic jobhunters for first place on the list of forgotten men.

Wall Street has some candidates for jobs in the woods who are not numbered among the 250,000.

Now, with peanuts in the farm bill—but, when is April 1, anyhow?

A Richer Diet Makes Larger Wolves, But It Doesn't Change Wolf Nature

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A GIFTED salesman might find evidence to prove this the best country in the world, California the best State in the country, a particular farm the best in California, a certain squash the best on the farm, and one seed the best in the squash.

And thus he would demonstrate to his own satisfaction that a prize squash seed is the best thing in the world.

It isn't the best of logic, but we commonly employ it to prove ourselves made of finer clay than our fellow men.

Self-respect is necessary to our survival. To build and keep it, we instinctively glorify the qualities and things we possess.

A barren land is earth's garden spot if it is home; the creed of our clan is the only one approved of Heaven; the costumes, customs, morals and ideas to which we are accustomed are superior to all others. They are best because they are approved by us, and we are best because we are adorned by them.

If we are perfect and right, those who are unlike us must be imperfect and wrong. And since all strangers seem unlike us, it follows that all are inferior. Thus the degree of our complacency is the measure of our ignorance. We feel superior to those outside our little group because we are ignorant of their many excellences.

The social elect of London feel amused contempt for "uncouth Americans," but they have no monopoly of the feeling of superiority. In any American village you can find a soda-jerker with varnished hair who feels his self-respect by calling the passing farmer a "darned hick."

We are surprised when we discover in the writings of ancient men a wisdom equal to our own; and when some contemporary politician, carpenter or bootblack agrees with us, we say to ourselves: "There's a smart fellow!"

H. L. Mencken once baited Bishop Cannon as lesser scribes did, but later he made the bishop's acquaintance and now he calls him the smartest man in America.

We need not be surprised to find other men much like ourselves. The mind makes the man. And the minds of men differ less than is commonly supposed.

If your heart and glands and emotions function like those of Caesar and Capt. Kidd and the man next door, why doubt that your brain cells also function like theirs?

The other man's ideas are unlike yours because he made them of different material.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Taking Time Out for Talk.

Minneapolis Journal.

The speed and unanimity with which Congress in its first few days provided President Roosevelt with the emergency legislation he demanded were fine. They were an important factor in putting panic to flight and restoring confidence. They showed that Congress, when occasion demanded single-minded leadership, could and would forego its constitutional practices and privileges. The critical moment called for action, not words; for decision, not debate.

But it is not to be supposed that Congress willingly gave up its precious privilege of talking as long as it likes on public questions, or that it will long continue to legislate at the headlong speed with which it started off. Congress is strong for the Roosevelt leadership and the Roosevelt program. It will, no doubt, continue to give the dynamic man in the White House whatever he asks for—if he asks for it insistently enough. But from now on Congress is going to take out more time for talk. It is going to refer matters to committees, which will hold hearings and proceed in solemn order, even though the ultimate result is more or less certain and assured.

Comforting Thought.

Boston Globe.

According to the Literary Digest only two States will oppose the repeal of the eighteenth amendment instead of the 13 needed to prevent repeal. This calculation allows a pleasant margin for error.

No Politics in This.

Syracuse Post-Standard.

We propose that President Roosevelt ask of Congress wide power—to eliminate the month of March and have two Junes instead.

Believe It or Not.

Philadelphia Inquirer.

Nebraska is boasting a lemon that is 18¼ inches in circumference. Pshaw! Louisiana has produced one that is about 5½ feet in pajamas.

The Decrease in Failures.

Kansas City Times.

For ten successive weeks the business failures reported by the leading commercial agency have been fewer than in the corresponding weeks of last year. For the entire period the decrease is 16.3 per cent from the figures of a year ago and about 5 per cent from two years ago. The comparisons indicate a growing financial stability of business concerns in the face of the prolonged depression which seems now to have reached its lowest level. There is reason to hope that the banking crisis marked the end of the prolonged decline in business, and the turning point in the depression era.

Better Study Farm Bill.

Boston Transcript.

We expressed interest in the farm relief bill because it approached the farmers' problem from a new angle. It proposes to cut down the surplus supplies of agricultural products not by buying and storing part of the excess at huge expense to the Federal Government, but by leasing a certain amount of farm lands and taking them out of cotton and grain production. This idea moves in the direction of common sense. But the more any sensible man studies the bill in its totality, the more he will become convinced that Congress should not rush this measure through on an emergency basis. House and Senate should examine it thoroughly, and debate it in full.

Promising to relieve farmers, the new bill is quite likely to ruin consumers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reflections and Reminiscences of "Old Soak" Touching Upon Saloons and Beer.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Strange as you may think it, in one respect I am disappointed now that the fight for legalized beer has been won. As long as the wet-dry argument continued I was hopeful that some day some one would clearly define what is or was the "saloon" which even the wets have told you they will not tolerate.

That it was a place where intoxicating liquors could be bought and consumed across a counter on the premises may be a full enough definition in fact. But during all these dry years my curiosity has been great as to why the inveterate wets as well as the always drys never named it except in one and the same tone of offended sanctity, while both wets and drys declared in unison that the "saloon" should never come back.

In the pre-Volstead days which are not beyond recall I could refresh myself with cold glasses of beer of a four or five per cent alcoholic content amid the orderly as well as the convivial surroundings of numerous saloons along Pennsylvania avenue all the way from the Capitol to The Post Building. The business men's lunch at these places was a favorite rendezvous for friendly intercourse and relaxation.

With a glass of Bun Bryan's old stock ale, aged from Civil War days, you could make a good start from down by the Peace Monument up the Avenue. For several blocks on the way there were snug harbors where a humble citizen reduced to his last nickel could tide himself over with a schooner of suds reinforced by a free lunch if he felt the need.

Just a few of what may be called the historic thirst emporiums which old-timers will remember in this section were Mades', Fritz Reuter's, the National and Metropolitan Hotel bars, Driver's, Oyster Bay, Harvey's, De Atley's, Stonestreet's, Hancock's, Godfrey's, the Harris House, Shoomaker's, Engel's, Gerstenberg's and the old Willard bar.

With no conclusive dictum from the drys or wets in regard to what is a "saloon," and with only my fond recollection to guide me, I am somewhat doubtful as to whether the District Commissioners can grant licenses and make regulations for the sale of beer by hotels, clubs, and cafeterias entirely free from the old saloon atmosphere. It will depend to a great extent on whether and how far the thirst for beer will prevail over the ostensible business of the licensed places. But in any event it is likely that the absence of hard liquor will make the drinking of constitutional beer much more effective as a basis for true temperance than it otherwise might be.

Like every one else, except the extreme drys, I will be glad if the revenue from beer more than verifies the rosy estimates of the extreme wets. And perhaps there are old-timers who like myself would get something like a pleasing reminiscent kick out of the situation if the return of beer should restore the impecunious dignified, anecdotal, and ingratiating "judges" and "majors" who comprised a picturesque feature in the saloon life of downtown Washington before the enactment of the Volstead law.

OLD SOAK.

Many Items in Cost of Living Have Not Been Reduced, Says Federal Employe.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Much is being said about the reduced cost of living in connection with the 15 per cent reduction in Federal salaries. I would like to know on what the official figures are based; certainly not on living conditions in Washington.

Here are a few of the facts about living in Washington:

Rents are not reduced, no matter what the realtors say to the contrary; perhaps $2.50 to $5 on the larger units, but no reduction on the one room and bath, or one room, kitchenette and bath. Board and room for those who are making their home with private families has not been reduced. The average person is still paying $45 a month for room and two meals a day—mostly with no privileges extended. The cost of transportation is higher in Washington now than it was in 1918, 1919, 1920 or 1921.

People who are buying homes are getting no reductions on their payments. The realtors and building and loan associations are not reducing their demands to meet the reduced salary scale. Taxes are higher; not only real and personal, but income taxes as well.

If the members of Congress were to make a thorough canvass among the Federal employes and find out just what each is paying out in actual living costs—rent, food, clothing, &c.—to say nothing of the incidentals such as dentists bills and doctor bills, I wonder if they would not elicit some surprising facts about living costs in Washington.

A FEDERAL EMPLOYE.

Partisanship Got People Into Bad Mess and They Liked It.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Only too true is the statement of your correspondent, R. E. Newell, of Irwin, Pa., which you printed March 27.

And because of that "foolish partisanship" and the "boring from within" the American people have deliberately and needlessly suffered for over two years. Now in the light of present disastrous events they are downright scared and are trying to rush through pell-mell measures far more painful than would have been necessary had that "foolish partisanship" not existed. The American people certainly wished poor health onto themselves and apparently enjoyed it, as the old saying goes.

The Meanderer

Finds Delightful Haven for Children Who Go Shopping With Their Mothers—

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Canaries are singing more now that they are moved into the children's corner of a popular department store lunch room on F street. The children who frequent this corner in ecstatic little groups may inspire the canaries to light-heartedness; and the glass-paned ceiling admitting the daylight into the little corner must also affect the songbirds. Mothers who find children a problem on a shopping tour should take them into this children's lunch room. Chairs and tables fit the children, and menus also are planned especially for children. Nursery rhyme pictures decorate the walls and especial menus are backed with pictures to draw and cut out and little tunes to sing while the food orders for the youngsters are being prepared. Not the least of the attractions is the aquarium of angel fish and other fish from the tropics and the always fascinating snails.

Baked custard, raisin bread sandwiches, prune bread sandwiches, carrots cooked in a fashion to overcome prejudices, frozen custard, several simple drinks made with milk, fruit jello and apple saurce are on the menu card in the children's corner.

Bittersweet cake, which is of a devil's food mixture topped with white fluffy boiled icing and bitter chocolate, is selling today in special 25-cent sizes in the adult lunch room adoining the children's room, of which the Meanderer has had so much to say. The minted pineapple preserves which Meanderer's readers have enjoyed are sold here, as is a new quince-cranberry marmalade. A novel container for some of the marmalades is a miniature Hall pottery garden urn, which may be used as a bit of bric-a-brac or as an ash tray when the delicious marmadale no longer fills it. Five-pound jars of such marmalades selling for 85 cents are much preferred for family consumption.

Eight or nine pound hams of a famous brand for family use are selling for 20 cents a pound in a favorite meat stand in a K street market. This ham sells in the stand where some Meanderings' readers have been buying cold meats, including the popular truffle-liver sausage.

Two-pound bunches of asparagus are recommended for serving with the ham dinners, for such liberal size bunches are selling this week-end in a chain store for 39 cents.

Almost any day the early-in-the-day shopper may buy bread for 4 cents a loaf in two downtown bakeries which reduce their regular 7 and 8 cent breads to the 4-cent "early bird specials." Even the 10-cent pumpernickel loaf often comes under this reduction. Cream bread, which is a long, white loaf, and cracked wheat bread may be found for this price by those who watch for the "early bird specials." Only two loaves of 4-cent bread may be bought by one customer.

Today these two downtown bakeries are selling whipped-cream puffs at 5 cents each.

An expert baker of pies has sold as many as 35 pies on Saturdays in her small stand in a farm women's market on the old Georgetown road. For several years she has been making the pies in true homemade fashion, winning many regular customers.

Orders for home-made candy Easter eggs are being taken in another market operated by farm women in upper Wisconsin avenue. The candy eggs have cream centers, are chocolate or colored sugar coated and may be labeled with names.

H. G. Wells' recent novel, "The Bulpington of Blup," is the book which will be discussed by Mrs. Kendrick Phillips at her réview at the Carlton this morning. Unlike its name, it is an extremely interesting story of a too sensitive life.

Three dramatized scenes will be presented, as usual. In these the role of Theodore Bulpington will be played by Mr. Theodore Tiller 2d; that of Margaret Broxted by Mrs. Phillips, and the role of the young soldier will be played by Mr. Walter Pick. This is the final review in this series.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

FALSE INCENTIVES.

IN the bringing up of children the means as well as the end should be considered. We not only want our children to behave in certain desirable ways, but we want them also to have the right reasons for doing it.

A child obedient through fear of punishment is only learning to do what he should so long as there is a possibility that he will be found out and punished if he doesn't.

A child who is good because otherwise "Mother will be so unhappy" usually soon learns to see through his mother's dramatization and rejects it as a hoax.

Sometimes, however, this attitude of personal grievance on the part of his mother when he has done wrong merely oppresses him with an inordinate sense of guilt.

If, with such a more sensitive child, the mother chooses to be "unhappy" by a great many things he naturally wants and even needs to do in order to be wholesome and active, she succeeds in hampering him most lamentably in every direction.

It is, of course, true that at the beginning the only check the small child knows is that which comes through fear of losing his parent's love and approval.

But as soon as he is able to comprehend the real valid reasons why this is required of him and that forbidden, these real reasons should be given so that he will be guided by his own acceptance of them rather than by pressure from without.

Mrs. Roosevelt Invited To A Capella Concert

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has been invited to be the guest of honor Monday evening, when the A Capella Choir will be heard in its third annual Lenten concert in the ballroom of the Hotel Mayflower in the presence of a large assemblage of Washington's music lovers, including many men and women prominent in official and semiofficial circles.

Headed by Lieut. Humphrey Daniel, the ushers who will seat the guests include Lieut. Lathrop E. Smith, Lieut. Ralph W. Powers, Lieut. James H. Nelson, Lieut. Charles Clark, jr., David Rodney Gascoyne, Mason Volney de Castle, John Ross Wheeler, Lewis Hall Ward, John Grille, William Press and James Kenneth Talbott, all associated with the machine gun unit of the 306th Cavalry, a reserve unit of the United States Army, allocated to the District of Columbia.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

I THINK the day's styles are particularly delightful for the young. Miss, junior, subdeb or junior deb—whatever she likes to be called at the moment, can be quaint or defiant, boyish—and how—or look like a page taken right out of the book of romance—as she wishes. Let's see what she does seem to like best, shall we? There is the shirtwaist, for one thing. She just adores it—and the more hectic the color combination the more she likes it! Then there is the sweater suit—she adores this, too. And the one-piece knitted sports dress.

Nothing need be said about the whole-hearted adoption of the masculine mode by the subdeb. Why not, when it is actually so becoming to her, and so well adapted to her activities? Slacks or bicycle slacks or lounging suits. She takes to these in preference to shorts—although shorts were once dear to her heart for all active sports. This year no—the long trousers prevail.

Wherever she gets her taste, this young lady of today, it is excellent. Mother hasn't a word to say about it and fortunately. That helps her develop her own, and that means an elegant and wisely spending woman of the future.

• • • •

Sleeves have it—and they better had or they won't have anything. The sleeve of today has something in it or on it—before it can be really allowed to join the sleeve class of class—at all. So if you have a dress that tries to pretend it doesn't care a bit about having an old-fashioned plain sleeve, hasten to your writing desk and there address two envelopes, one to yourself, and the other to the Dare Department of The Post. Then send them to us and get in return a leaflet of sleeve designs—all made over from old, plain sleeve! That will give every dress in your wardrobe a new lease on life—see if it doesn't. All for just taking the trouble to send this envelope to us—and a few remnants.

Turquoise blue is a favorite spring color for hats and scarfs in sets—so look for all that old turquoise jewelry you bought a few years ago when this color was all the rage!

Au revoir!

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

A NEW ANTIDOTE.

A MANAGER of an office building invited two policemen into his office to have a drink. Within three hours the convivial building manager and his friends, the law enforcers, were dead. When it was discovered that the representatives of the law and their host were in trouble an ambulance was called and they were taken to the San Francisco Emergency Hospital. It was speedily determined that, somehow, cyanide had got into the whisky and the men were suffering from the effects of cyanide poisoning. • • •

The alert health director, Dr. J. C. Geiger, found the antidotes against and remedies for cyanide poisoning were worthless. • • •

He invited Drs. Hanzlik and Leake, leading pharmacologists, to make a report on medicines to be used in emergencies, and particularly in cyanide poisoning. They reported advocating the use of injection of methylene blue solution into the veins in cyanide poisoning and in other conditions in which the coloring matter of the blood could not pick up oxygen because it was tied to something else.

About two months later the emergency hospitals had a chance to try the remedy. A man suffering from cyanide poisoning was brought in. The surgeon in charge injected nearly two ounces of a 1 per cent watery solution of methylene blue into a vein. Of course the stomach was also emptied and washed out, a standard procedure in all kinds of poisoning, including alcoholism. The man was on safe ground a few minutes after the injection was given.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"ARIES."

IF March 31 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:45 a. m. to 8 a. m., from 11 a. m. to 12:15 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:45 a. m. to 10:45 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 5:40 p. m.

Much will be accomplished on this day, though most likely along physical rather than mental lines. Those working with their hands will find their tasks accomplished with comparative ease and unusual accuracy. Children will be lax in the matter of obeying their parents.

The child born on this March 31 may possibly have a few health troubles early in life, but nothing from which he should not recover "in short order." It is possible that he will come into a legacy of some kind before attaining his majority. He will not be lucky in love.

If March 31 is the date of your birth, you will never have any difficulty making money, for you readily adapt yourself to surrounding conditions and you quickly master any task that is set before you. Your great difficulty will come from an inability to save what you do make; unless you take care to correct this tendency to let money slip through your fingers, your old age will be far from a prosperous one. You demand a great deal from those who work for you; you are not the most considerate of employers. Your prime object in life is to wield the rod of authority. You seek power, and you use it to satisfy your vanity.

To Have a Suit or Frock
Hand-Knitted to order

Is the ultimate in chic—and not prohibitive in price! At surprisingly small cost you may have a sport costume distinctively your own—you choose the yarn, the color, the model—and the costume is knitted to your individual measurements, entirely by hand. New models have arrived, we would like to have you come and see them. Prices begin at $65.

Sketched, hand-knitted three-piece suit in two tones of leaf green and white blouse with lace yoke, $100 to your order.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

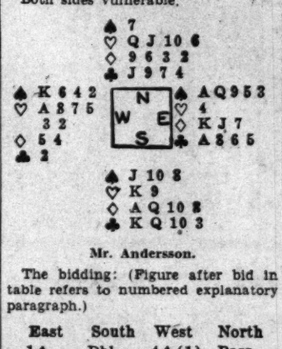
SPARKLING DEFENSE.

I HAVE frequently referred to the splendid play of the Bridge players of Sweden. Mr. Ivar Andersson, of Stockholm, sent me a hand recently in which his defense was absolutely sparkling. I question whether I have ever seen a hand combining more splendid defensive plays than the one below.

East, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



Mr. Andersson.

The bidding: (Figure after bid in table refers to numbered explanatory paragraph.)

East	South	West	North
1♠	Dbl.	4♠(1)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—West's bid of four spades is an overbid, but in view of his freakish distribution, he wishes to shut out the exchange information between North and South.

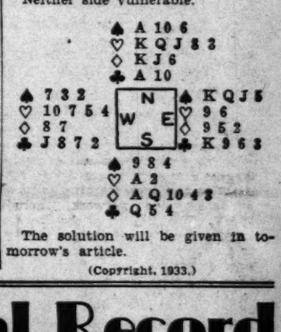
Mr. Andersson chose as his opening lead the spade Knave. This was won in the closed hand and the small heart led to the Ace in Dummy. The Declarer planned to establish the long heart suit in Dummy, if possible, for the easy fulfillment of his contract. A heart was returned and ruffed in the closed hand. A small trump was now led by the Declarer, which was won with the king, and a third lead of hearts was ruffed by the Declarer with the 9. Here Mr. Andersson made his first brilliant play. Instead of overruffing, he discarded the diamond 8. He realized that he could not afford to overruff, as this would provide sufficient reentries in the Dummy to establish the heart suit. The Declarer led the Ace of clubs to the sixth trick and trumped a club in Dummy for the seventh, Mr. Andersson again making a brilliant play by playing the Queen. Another heart from Dummy was trumped with the Declarer's Queen and a club returned for Dummy to ruff, upon which Mr. Andersson completed his trio of brilliant plays by playing the King. The purpose of these plays is, of course, obvious. It was to avoid being thrown in and having to lead up to Declarer's probable King of diamonds, which would permit the fulfillment of the contract. Mr. Andersson early saw that his only hope on the hand was if his partner held the Knave of clubs. To the tenth trick a small heart was led from the Dummy, South ruffed and led the Ten of clubs, which North overtook with the knave in order to permit him to lead through East's holdings in diamonds up to the major tenace.

An example throughout of brilliant and accurate defense.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

Using the Culbertson Four-Five Notrump Convention, how would you bid the hand below, and what should be the final contract? If a contract of seven notrump was reached, how would you plan the play to fulfill the contract?

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The solution will be given in tomorrow's article.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

HIS HOLINESS, POPE PIUS XI, speaking from the Vatican, will address a special Holy Year message to the American people which will be rebroadcast over national networks betwen 1:30 and 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The message will be given in Latin and his words will be translated into English by Father John O'Rourke, of New York, now attached to the Vatican.

Leopold Stokowski will direct the Philadelphia Orchestra and a group of nationally known operatic stars in a concert presentation of Richard Wagner's mighty music drama "Parsifal" in two separate broadcasts over a nation-wide network, including WJSV. The first act of the opera will be presented this afternoon from 2:30 to 4 o'clock and the second and third acts tomorrow night from 8:15 to 10 p. m., both broadcasts originating in the Academy of Music in Philadelphia.

Soloists will include Robert Steel, as Parsifal; Rose Bampton, as Kundry; Nelson Eddy, as Gurnemanz; Dudley Marwick, as Klingsor; Alexis Tscherkassky, as Amfortas, and Leonard Treash, as Titurel. In addition a group of twelve from the Curtis Institute of Music will be heard as flower maidens, and ensemble numbers will enlist the efforts of the Brahms Chorus, the Philadelphia Grand Opera Chorus, the Reading Choral Society, and the glee clubs of Princeton University, Mount St. Joseph's College and Bryn Mawr College.

EDWARD P. MULROONEY, police commissioner of the city of New York, will appear with Ed. Hill to tell his "Inside Story" over WJSV at 9:30 o'clock tonight.

In command of the largest police department in the world, Mulrooney is charged with the task of preserving peace and order in and about the earth's leading population center. During an informal conversation with Hill he will reveal the background of the little-known incident which eventually brought his name into the headlines and played an important role in his rise from the rank of patrolman to that of commissioner.

"I was regretting the passing of the 'March of Time,'" Mrs. R. C. Sucrow, of Wheaton, Md., writes, "but didn't feel so badly when I read in your column that Carson Robison and his Buckaroos would fill that spot. I had a fine half hour with them."

A new series of Richfield Country Club programs, bringing Alex Morrison's golf instructions to the air and a half hour of music, songs and comedy by a cast of stage and radio stars, will be inaugurated at 10:30 o'clock tonight over WRC. Morrison will give listeners lessons in the fundamentals and fine points of golf.

HENRY NESTOR, popular local barytone and winner of the NBC-RKO radio talent quest last year, returns to the air at 9:45 o'clock tonight in a new sustaining program on Station WMAL.

Nestor, who is popularly known in local radio music circles as "The Singing Cop," has devoted most of his time since his last radio series to local concert appearances.

Brass Buttons Revue, a half-hour variety show presenting the page boys of the NBC as comedians, soloists, sports announcers and instrumental virtuosos, with their own dance band and master of ceremonies, will be heard over WMAL at 11:30 o'clock.

The beautiful melody of Moya's "Song of Songs" will be featured by Mary Eastman, soprano, when she is heard as soloist with Andre Kostelanetz and his orchestra at 9:15 o'clock tonight. Bowers' "Chinese Lullaby" from "East Is West" will be the musical comedy feature of the presentation. Miss Eastman will conclude the broadcast singing "My Laddie" and "All For You."

A group of radio entertainers will stage two performances tonight and tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Madison School at Falls Church, Va., for the benefit of the Parent-Teacher Association fund, used primarily to provide free luncheons for Falls Church school children. The program has been arranged by "Germaine, the Little French Girl," and Violet Waehter, who presents the dramatic sketches, "Doors," with Jim McGrath, WMAL announcer, as master of ceremonies.

Talent will include the Hawaiian Melody Boys; Martha Borcorselski, whistler; Mary Stephenson, blues singer; George Emmans, composer-pianist; and Katherine Lawrence.

In addition there will be impersonations of Amos and Andy, Kate Smith, Zasu Pitts, Stoopnagle and Budd, Mrs. Goldberg, Irene Bordoni and others by Stanley Simmons, Ralph Fowler, Edith Sperling, Violet Wachter and Lucy Chaconas.

The production will not be broadcast.

THE return of legalized beer will be celebrated on the radio networks if present plans materialize. Columbia will be on the air from 12:30 to 2:00 a. m. the morning of April 7, with programs from New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Milwaukee.

NBC is considering a four-hour show, with Ben Bernie as master of ceremonies.

A series of special programs in connection with the Century of Progress Exposition which opens in Chicago will be carried by WRC and WMAL this spring. The Chicago Symphony Orchestra, with Frederick Stock conducting, will inaugurate the series on Saturday, April 8. . . . Rosario Bourdon, director of the Cities Service Orchestra, made his first money as cellist with the Ostend Kursaal Orchestra at Ostend, Belgium's North Sea resort city. . . . Freeman F. Gosden (Amos, of "Amos 'n' Andy") will observe his thirty-fourth birthday on April 26. . . . Although her parents were talented pianists, and several other members of her immediate family are musicians, Countess Olga Albani was the first member of her clan to adopt the art professionally. Besides being a vocal soloist, she plays the harp, mandolin and piano.

OVERHEARD on the "Show Boat" program:

Culver Academy Head Describes Scholarship

Moving pictures of Culver Military Academy were shown at Western High School yesterday afternoon by Gen. L. R. Gignilliat, head of the institution, as a means of acquainting local junior high school students with the scholarship to be awarded a District boy each year.

Culver Academy, valued at $6,000,000, is being gradually placed in the possession of the alumni through transfer of a trust fund, Gen. Gignilliat announced.

Sharp Quake Strikes Southern California

Los Angeles, March 30 (A.P.).—A wide area of southern California, centering in the vicinity of Long Beach and Los Angeles, was rocked by a sharp earthquake at 4:25 a. m. today. The convulsion lasted about 5 seconds. No damage was reported.

The tremor was not felt in Santa Barbara or in San Diego.

Stokowski Proves Star As Volunteer Fireman

Philadelphia, March 30 (A.P.).—Leopold Stokowski, of the Philadelphia Orchestra, played a new role today—that of fireman. Stokowski had just finished conducting a dress rehearsal for a concert when smoke began to fill the auditorium of the Academy of Music.

Doffing his coat, Stokowski led a dash to the foyer and, after pulling aside valuable electrical equipment, fought the blaze with a fire extinguisher until firemen arrived. The fire, blamed on faulty wiring, was extinguished with little damage.

Stocks Continue Declines In Dull, Narrow Trading

Two-Tenths Loss Recorded as Sales Drop to 624,250 Shares.

New York, March 30 (A.P.).—Stocks found the market narrow and dull today, though the trend was still slightly downward, the average net change being a small loss.

Speculative inertia was especially pronounced in the handful of favorites which had done most of the declining in recent sessions, and these shares steadied. Aside from firmness of sugar and alcohol issues and a gentle sag for some rails, the day was featureless and total sales aggregated only 624,250 shares.

Carrier securities presumably reflected anticipated reorganizations. However, Wall street inclined to the belief that there had been plenty of time to discount such eventualities and that actual news of financial readjustments would have its constructive angles. Sugar shares were buoyed by a rise in the futures market for that commodity, which in turn was watching the progress of segregation proposals in Cuba.

American Telephone gave a better account of itself. Absence of offerings in this leader was accompanied by some short covering, particularly when the wholly-owned Pennsylvania subsidiary declared its regular quarterly dividend of $2. So far, the reductions in operating company payments have been made chiefly by units not fully owned by A. T. & T. The latter's shares rallied half a point net.

U. S. Steel, American Can, Allied Chemical, Du Pont and General Motors showed small changes, averaging a little higher on the day. Drug, Inc., softened 2 points, while National Biscuit sagged 1. Delaware & Hudson, Union Pacific and Rock Island were also down a point. Corn Products, American Sugar, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Pullman, Royal Dutch and U. S. Steel preferred bettered their quotations from fractions to around a point and a half. National Distillers Products went into new high ground. Paramount Publix and Willys Overland ended their current stock market careers at quotations of 12½ cents; both will be stricken from the list tomorrow, the companies are in receivership and are not maintaining transfer offices which automatically removes them from the list.

Employment in the manufacturing industries improved a trifle in February and there was a corresponding gain in total wages paid, but the latter's rise was below the average rise over January for the last several years. Full effects of the banking holiday on industry will not be measurable until the March statistics are published.

The day's news in trade circles contributed scant information as to the state of business. At Pittsburgh, No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap was advanced 25 cents a ton, thus continuing the recent improvement of a basic raw material.

U. S. BONDS STAND AS MARKET DROPS

Trading Verges on Dullness With Heavier Sales of $10,608,000.

New York, March 30 (A.P.).—The bond market continued to stumble over uncertainties today and only the United States Government group was able to resist the downward drift of prices.

Trading verged on dullness in most issues and bids and offers were far apart in many instances, with some sharp losses resulting from the turnover of a few bonds. Sales totaled $10,608,000 and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans dropped four-tenths of a point.

While sentiment toward the Federal group was still cheerful, there apparently was a fair-sized supply of both high grade and speculative mortgages waiting for buyers that insisted upon holding aloof. Recent offerings of higher grade bonds were attributed partly to liquidation by conservators of closed banks in various parts of the country.

The foreign section was again the victim of pronounced weakness in scattered divisions. Loans of Colombia suffered further losses of 2½ to 9⅜ points, reflecting the declaration of a moratorium by the republic on foreign debt payments. German obligations recorded new 1933 lows, declines in this list ranging from 1 to around 4 points after a steadier tone had been indicated in earlier trading. The Argentines were heavy and French 7½s sagged 2 points.

Most United States Government bonds, while not usually active, were able to hold gains ranging from 2-32 to 15-32 of a point.

There were a number of minor casualties among the domestic rails. Kansas City, Fort Scott & Memphis 4s, a responsibility of the Frisco, slumped 13¾ points. Mobile & Ohio general 4s, exemplifying the thinness of the market, fell 38¼ points on a single transaction involving three bonds.

A few of the utilities and industrials steadied, but the majority had little support. A rather heavy tone was exhibited by loans of American Telephone, Chile Copper, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Goodrich, Goodyear, Kelly Springfield, Laclede Gas, National Steel, North American, Studebaker, United Drug and United States Rubber.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Foreign issues, especially German bonds, weakened in a more quiet session of the stock exchange owing to political uncertainties. Profit-taking caused recessions in Argentina rails and transatlantic issues, but gilt-edged securities and gold mining shares recovered part of their early losses. The closing was irregular.

Paris—Lower Wall street advices, month-end selling and liquidation in centers following publication of the government's intention to leave the budget unbalanced, caused heaviness on the bourse. The close was also heavy.

Berlin—Heavy selling attributed to the Jewish situation caused many stocks on the boerse to decline more than five points. The market closed weak.

Burning Oil Wells Will Be Bombed

Materials for Attack Soon to Arrive in Fields of Venezuela.

New York, March 30 (A.P.).—Pan American Airways announced today that men and materials were approaching Maracaibo, Venezuela, for a projected bombing attack on an oil well which has been burning for 23 days.

Myron M. Kinley, noted Tulsa, Okla., firefighter, was due at Maracaibo late this afternoon by plane and an assistant with grenades and asbestos "armor" will arrive Sunday in another plane.

Together the two will travel by boat and burro the 160 miles to the Catatumbo oil field where the column of fire waves across the sky. Protected by asbestos clothing and an asbestos shield they will approach the flame close enough to hurl explosives which it is hoped will blast out the fire. The protective garments and screen left Philadelphia, Pa., by plane this morning.

Volume Is Reduced in Leading Cities; Cut in Large Centers.

New York, March 30 (A.P.).—Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today that bank clearings for the week ended March 29, totaled $3,704,839,000 at leading cities, a reduction of 6.7 per cent from a year ago. In New York the decrease was .2 of 1 per cent, but the total for other centers was 20.1 per cent smaller. The aggregate is $980,648,000 under that of the previous week.

"The losses outside New York City," said the agency, "are mainly at the larger centers, among these Chicago and Detroit, the latter now reporting for a part of the week for the first time since the bank holiday.

"At many points, particularly at the South and Pacific Coast points, the losses again are small. At some cities, there is an increase in the amount of clearings, Minneapolis and Louisville being included in the number. It is customary for bank clearings in the final week of the month to show some reduction."

CURB MARKET SAGS IN LISTLESS DEALING

Leading Issues Join Loss Column on Sale of 70,000 Shares.

New York, March 30 (A.P.).—Curb stocks continued to sag under their own weight today, rather than from important external pressure.

In the same narrow professional dealings, leading issues, with few exceptions, recorded losses ranging from fractions to a point. The day's business amounted to 70,000 shares compared with 100,000 yesterday.

There were no bright spots in the utility group, although traders for the decline had no great success. Some of the closely held issues lost a point or two, but leaders such as Electric Bond & Share, American Gas & Electric and Niagara Hudson Power did not venture far from yesterday's closing levels.

Some inactive specialties which have not been selling readily in recent sessions yielded further ground. Chesebrough Manufacturing dropped 5 points and Pennsylvania Water, 3.

The market had its brighter side, however, in brisk bidding for several issues which were supposed in some way to be affected by reports of reviving business.

The stock of A. O. Smith & Co., which serves a number of industries now in the doldrums, jumped about 5 points to the accompaniment of gossip that the company might book a substantial line of business for beer containers. National Sugar also moved up a couple of points in sympathy with a fair rise in the raw sugar futures market.

Crude Oil Averages.

Oil City, Pa., March 30 (A.P.).—Credit balance, $1.42; runs, 16,578; average runs, 25,269; shipments, 43,454; average shipments, 48,230.

TRADE TRENDS.

(By Associated Press.)

Farm Income—Cash income taken in by the American farmer in February dropped about 27 per cent from February, 1932, and was 21 per cent below the January.

Drugs—Trade reports say that codliver the State Street Research and Management Corporation in conjunction with the Corn Industries Research Foundation. The total approximated $240,000,000, representing a slight improvement over December, the low month, after allowing for seasonal correction.

Electric refrigerators—It is reported that a number of manufacturers will announce sweeping price reductions before April 1.

Cotton goods—To keep moving, holders of staple finished cottons are said to be selling at such discounts as to bring prices well below the recently prevailing average.

Gasoline—Price advances in a number of sections on the Atlantic seaboard have prompted hopes in the trade of a general lift in quotations. Some dealers predict an early advance in the New York Metropolitan district.

Wash goods—Business is reported in steady volume on sheer cottons. Voiles are said to be moving slowly.

Drugs—Trade reports say that cod liver oil, mercurials, quicksilver, methanol and citric acid are firm with indications pointing to higher prices on some items over the next few weeks.

Sugar Futures Prices Higher in Active Sales

New York, March 30 (A.P.).—Prices for raw sugar futures rose sharply today in active trading on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange. Most of the active contracts were bid up about one-twentieth of a cent a pound above the closing prices of yesterday.

The market's strength in the face of inactivity in other commodity markets was based on expectations of an early agreement on pending plans for reducing this year's Cuban export quota for the United States.

WHEAT VALUES DROP ON EASTERN SELLING

Corn Joins in New Slump but Oats Stage Rise of 1/8 to ¼.

Chicago, March 30 (A.P.).—Jolted by a sudden influx of Eastern selling today at the last, grain values underwent quick setbacks and finished with losses for wheat and corn.

Late pressure of wheat was attributed to unloading of some heavy speculative holdings. Announcement of proposed liquidation of $157,000,000 of Federal commodity loans made to cooperative marketing associations was variously construed by traders, some asserting that the announcement was bearish, but others saying that most of the loans were against nongrain products, and that in the long run the new policy as to the loans was basically constructive.

Wheat closed nervous, ¼ to ⅞ under yesterday's finish; corn, unchanged to ⅝ off; oats, unchanged to ⅛ to ¼ up, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents down.

Firm in Early Trading.

Until right at the finish, a firm tone prevailed in the wheat market during the late transactions. This was chiefly due to the fact that steady buying of small lots had developed owing to belief expressed in various quarters that liquidation of commodity holdings by cooperative marketing agencies would not be an important factor as to grain. Earlier, the pit crowd had generally inclined to the view that the proposed cooperative loan liquidation was bearish.

Friends of higher prices for wheat put stress on reports that the Senate Agriculture Committee had approved an amendment to the administration farm bill so as to guarantee to growers the cost of production on commodities included in the bill. Leading trade authorities here asserted, however, that "cost of production" was a very elastic phrase, and differed on every farm, involving yield per acre as well as capital spent in production. It was added that if such a requirement stayed in the bill, the net effect would be another almost impossible provision for the Secretary of Agriculture to struggle with.

Corn and oats mainly followed wheat. Provisions averaged lower with hog values.

FAIRFAX TAXPAYERS URGE BUDGET SLASH

League Committee Will Go Before Supervisors at Meeting Wednesday.

The Taxpayers League of Fairfax County, Va., in adopting all the recommendations of its budget committee, yesterday urged that drastic county budget reductions be made next year. The budget for the year will be adopted by the county board of supervisors at its monthly meeting next Wednesday. A special committee of the league will attend.

The league urged that the supervisors ask the State authorities to reduce the cost of the annual audit of the county books; that stationery and telephone costs be cut and several allegedly nonessential telephones be removed from offices in the courthouse; that traveling expenses of the treasurer and commissioner of revenue be reduced or eliminated and no allowance be granted these two officers for additional clerk hire during rush seasons.

The league recommended that the Commonwealth's attorney endeavor to have the three county traffic officers appointed on the State highway police force by July 1, that the $1,500 item for hospitalization and $150 physicians' allowance for indigent poor be abolished, that the cost of maintenance of county buildings and grounds be reduced, that the annual contribution of $200 for the Children's Home Society in Richmond be eliminated, and the amount for fire protection distributed among the recognized volunteer fire departments in the county be reduced because of the withdrawal by law of Falls Church.

Suburb Chambers Seek Capital Ties

Montgomery Groups Study Plan for Affiliation With Washington's.

Affiliation of Montgomery County Chambers of Commerce with the Washington chamber is being studied by the county groups, it was announced yesterday by Walter Funderburk, chairman of the publicity committee of the Rockville Chamber of Commerce. Under the plan suggested the six county chambers would become affiliated with the District chamber, each chamber having one vote and the right to seat one delegate.

The plan was outlined at a meeting between Dorsey W. Hyde, jr., executive secretary of the Washington chamber, and representatives of the county chambers. The representatives appeared satisfied with the plan but did not wish to commit themselves until their various bodies had been given an opportunity to study and act on the proposal.

Chief among the benefits would be the promotional value of combined advertising by the two groups as well as close cooperation in matters pertaining to and interesting both groups.

Taxpayers Battle Payment of Note

Bill Filed in Arlington to Stop Settlement of $50,000 Lien.

Bill to restrain the Arlington County Board and the county school board from paying any part of the principal or interest on a $50,000 note held by Clyde C. Lamond against the county school board was filed in the Arlington clerk's office yesterday.

The papers were filed by Attorney Emery N. Hosmer for Edgar W. Pumphrey, Frederick E. Mann and I. N. Rich, taxpayers, who are named as the principals in the proceedings.

Hosmer stated last night that he will appear before Judge Walter T. McCarthy, in the circuit court, today for an injunction prohibiting either the county school board or county board from laying a levy for the purpose of paying the note or interest. The note in question is said to have been made May 21, 1928, by the former county school board to pay various obligations contracted prior to 1926.

Maryland Senate Kills Civil Marriage Bill

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 30.—The Maryland Senate, through the adoption of an unfavorable report, tonight killed the so-called "civil marriage" bill, which would have permitted judges and clerks of courts to officiate at weddings.

Senator Ridgely P. Melvin, Anne Arundel County, was the chief champion of the bill. Arrayed against him in the debate were Senators Dudley G. Roe, Queen Anne's County; L. Creston Beachamp, Somerset County, and George Frick, Baltimore City. Opponents of the bill urged among other things that it would encourage hasty marriages. Many ministers advocated enactment of the bill.

Only 400 License Tags Issued in Alexandria

Claude W. Fletcher, in charge of distribution of State automobile license tags in Alexandria, stated yesterday that to date less than 400 licenses had been sold, while the number estimated to be sold in the city and adjacent territory is 6,000. The time limit for the State tags is May 1.

City Collector W. R. Purvis Taylor has issued through his office 1,757 tags for passenger cars and 231 for trucks in the sale of the city license, the time limit for these being April 15. The original date for this license was March 15, but was extended one month in view of the financial situation recently.

Dodge, and with three former pastors present, the Rev. C. K. Hobbs, the Rev. O. W. Triplett and the Rev. O. P. Lloyd.

Three of the 19 charter members of the church were present as were also Mrs. D. R. Stansbury and Mrs. Daily, daughters of Capt. J. P. Woody, the founder.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

FOR those with a yen for vodka and pumpernickel burning in their blood, this seems to be a golden opportunity.

I mean the junket that will have the first Moscow Theatrical Festival, with an elaborately arranged program covering the dates from June 1 through June 15, as its goal. This cruise to Soviet Russia will be conducted by Oliver M. Sayler, publicist de luxe, author of numerous books on the American and Russian theater and one of show business' major pundits, according to recent announcement by the Drama League Travel Bureau, under whose auspices the tour will be made with the cooperation of Intourist, Inc., the official Soviet travel bureau.

The schedule of the tour calls for sailing from New York on the North German Lloyd liner Berlin on May 10, brief stopovers in Copenhagen and Helsingfors, arrival in Leningrad on May 27, four days of sightseeing and playgoing in the old Russian capital, ten days of attendance at the Theater Festival in Moscow, and return via Leningrad and the Baltic Sea to New York on the S. S. Dresden, on June 25.

Members of the group who wish to do so may remain in Moscow for the last five days of the festival, or return by rail to a western European port for embarkation at a small additional expense.

I presume it is unnecessary to remark that it takes a pretty good Sayler for a trip like this.

To those who feel that, times being what they are, a jaunt to Moscow is a bit ne plus ultra, not to say e pluribus unum and non compos mentis, it may seem more important that Manager Rodney Collier, of the Rialto Theater, has added a new low charge to his night price scale, to wit, mezzanine seats at 35 cents a copy, after 6 p. m.

Heretofore, the loges have been 75 cents at night and all the rest of the house 55 cents. The new 35-cent mezzanine admission is for the express benefit of those who are budgeting carefully and feel that they can not afford the trip to Moscow with Mr. Sayler. The morning and afternoon prices remain the same as formerly, without addition or subtraction.

Speaking of budgeting, as nobody was, especially, that may account for business having been decidedly off at the theaters this week. Then, of course, it may not. The fact, however, remains that customers have stayed away from the box-offices in great droves this week in comparison with the thoroughly abnormal attendance that was rung up over the Inaugural period.

"King Kong," of course, has scared large numbers of people half to death and Miss Moore, Singin' Sam, "Gamby" and the others have lured considerable audiences to Loew's Fox and the Earle, but, by and large, business this week has been pretty terrible. So how've you been?

Maybe today will mark a turn. At any rate, the Palace, anticipating a vast public curiosity as to the real merits of "Gabriel Over the White House"—a provocative and argumentative film, if ever there was one—announces six "de luxe" presentations of the feature today, whatever a de luxe presentation may be in a theater devoted exclusively to screen entertainment without stage embellishment. The performance at 9:35—for complete schedule see the Film Time Tables—will be the special showing in compliment to the President's Cabinet, the U. S. Senate, the presidential secretariat and other invited guests.

Prompted to similar optimism by the presence of Morton Downey on the stage and a diverting feature on the screen, the Earle will present five de luxe performances tomorrow, Saturday, "de luxe," at the moment, being one or two of our favorite words.

Then, too, there is the item that makes known the addition tonight of two new artists to the floor show at the Russian Troika. They would be Edwardo Stanisloff—which I suspect of being Eduardo, although I'm probably crazy—a dancer from the Keith and RKO time, and Eileen Mercedes—who also seems to be mixing her nationalities a little—a singing comedienne not unknown to Washington audiences.

It was about midnight—proving that dramatic editors as well as Pinkerton detectives never sleep—when this column's eager ear caught wind of the fact that Ernest Truex, the imperishable juvenile, will be costarred with Peggy Wood in Lee Shubert's forthcoming production of "Best Seller," Dorothy Cheston Bennett's adaptation of Edouard (you can see for yourself there are plenty of ways to spell it) Bourdet's new comedy which will have its American premiere in the National Theater on Monday, April 17.

This will be the sixth and final play under the auspices of the American Theater Society, which thus fulfills its pledge, contrary to recent expectations of large numbers of nervous subscribers.

A distinguished cast has been selected to support Miss Wood and Mr. Truex, including Ian Keith, who was to have been with Tallulah Bankhead in "Forsaking All Others," but wasn't—although he is still visible on the screen in "The Sign of the Cross"—George Colouris, Edgar Barrier, Ralph Locke, Fred Voight, Roman Bohnen, Joseph Allenton and Philip Jones, with one "l."

If we hadn't decided to give up last lines during the remainder of Lent, this is probably where one would be.

Or maybe here, you never can tell!

Mrs. Moxley had been found guilty in county police court and a fine of $50 imposed, which she appealed to the circuit court.

Mrs. Moxley was alleged to have struck the uncle with a tobacco stick when he grinned at her after she remonstrated with him about taking tobacco from the barn of her estranged husband, Ollie T. Moxley. Robert Moxley is a brother of Chief of Police Alvin A. Moxley.

McFadden Seeks Treasury Inquiry

Has Never Been Audited He Says in Introducing Resolution.

(United Press.)

Representative McFadden, (Republican) Pennsylvania, who twice sought, without success, to impeach former President Hoover, yesterday demanded a complete investigation of the United States Treasury.

"There are in circulation certain rumors concerning the integrity of the Treasury," McFadden declared in introducing his resolution. "They are very dangerous to the public confidence we are endeavoring to rebuild."

The former chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee pointed out that the Treasury was the largest financial organization in the world.

"And," he continued, "it never has been audited."

of the Federal Trade Commission, were invited as first witnesses, but Cummings will be unable to appear.

The House hearings are expected by Representative Rayburn (Democrat), Texas, committee chairman, to wind up quickly, for report to the floor early next week.

On the Senate side plans were less defined because the banking committee received the securities bill only yesterday. It was referred to the Judiciary Committee which intended hustling it right back to the Senate after one day's study.

Long Stock Investigation.

The banking committee pointed to its long stock investigation, all directed at curing security abuses, and asked to be given the bill. The Senate complied, and today's hearing was merely transferred from one audience to another. There was every indication that action would not be delayed.

The Morgan situation developed when Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel in charge of the stock market inquiry, reported he had submitted a list of 23 questions to the banking house regarding its operations, the bankers agreed to answer only 15.

Authority Is Questioned.

Through John W. Davis, its counsel, the banking house questioned the committee's authority on seven of the questions and flatly refused to answer the other, Pecora said.

The committee instructed him to draft a resolution to give it unquestioned authority to go fully into the field of private banking. This is to be placed before the Senate quickly. Pecora said the questions on which answers were refused had to do with the capital structure of the banking house. He did not disclose the other questions.

New York, March 30 (A.P.).—John W. Davis, counsel for J. P. Morgan & Co., issued a statement today saying the banking firm was cooperating with the Senate committee investigating stock market practices. The statement read:

"I have seen the statements emanating from Washington with reference to the inquiry by the Senate Banking and Currency Committee into the affairs of J. P. Morgan & Co. The impression given that the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. has refused to cooperate in the proceedings of the committee is entirely erroneous. Even now the firm is engaged in the preparation, under my direction, of information along the lines suggested by Mr. Pecora several days ago. There is no disposition to decline to answer any pertinent inquiries."

Ferdinand Pecora is counsel for the Senate committee.

NATS BOW TO ATLANTA'S NINTH-INNING RALLY, 4-3

Fred Sington Is Hero of Crackers

Robs Nats of Runs by Sensational One-Hand Catches.

Crowder Allows 3 Hits in 6 Innings; McAfee Pounded.

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

ATLANTA, Ga., March 30.—"Full many a rose is born to bloom unseen."

Freddy Sington, who was the only member of the 1930 Alabama University Football Team who could spell the names of the courses he took at that old football foundry, gave another exhibition of his versatility here today, in front of about 150 people, when he just about single-handedly sent Washington down to a 4-3 defeat.

Two superb catches, the likes of which haven't been seen since senility set in upon Spoke Speaker, and a couple of man-sized wallops at the plate, were the contributions proffered by the 230-pounder, whom major league scouts have either overlooked or, if they have been looking at him, have been stricken with a catastrophic loss of their talents.

One-Handed Catches Choke Off Rallies.

Thumbing rapidly through the collected feats of Frank Merriwell, I see no two catches to parallel two vital ones made by Fred today for Atlanta. He stopped the earmarks of a Washington rally that threatened to widen the score of 3 to 1 by which the Nats were leading in the sixth inning when he raced in with the momentum of a loose locomotive wheel to make a stunning one-handed swan dive catch of Joe Cronin's short liner to left, and a moment later crashed up against the left-field stands, twisted his mastodonic body in the air and speared Fred Schulte's mighty home-run drive out of the ozone for the most spectacular one-handed catch of the grapefruit season.

Offensively, he clouted a ball through Ossie Bluege's legs in the sixth that scored Red Rollings and put the Crackers within one run of the Nats, 2 to 3, and he started the ninth-inning rally that won the ball game for the locals by thundering a triple to right center, having dealt very firmly with one of Bill McAfee's slow balls. He scored the tying run when Pete Susko hit another triple in the same place. He scored the first Cracker run of the game, by the way, in the second inning, after doubling. Washington, to make a long story interesting, couldn't get him out.

Messenger Proves Puzzle to Nats.

Most of the rest of today's credit belongs to one Andy Messenger, a bush leaguer pitcher with a Carl Mayian cellar ball, who allowed but two hits in the last four innings of the game and Fred Neisler, the rookie Cracker catcher, who singled Susko home with the winning run in the last half of the ninth.

Washington led all the way down to the wire, thanks to an amalgamation of hitting and base running in the third inning when all three of the Nats runs were scored. Heinie Manush provided the magnus punchus of the run scoring inning when, with two outs, he whacked a ball between first and second scoring Al Crowder and Buddy Myer. Crowder had gotten on base through the grace of a fielder's choice and Myer had become eligible to scuff up the pathways when Petey Chatham, the Atlanta shortstop, started doing card tricks with a grounder Buddy hit to him. Manush scored the third Washington run when Goose Goslin, who is hitting the ball quite decently these days, pumped a single to center.

Crowder worked six innings for our side, the most endeavor any of our pitchers have put in this year. He was pretty parsimonious with hits, only allowing three. Bill McAfee looked very good just after relieving, retiring the first six men who faced him, but then came Sington and that last half of the ninth.

Maybe we should forget the whole thing.

Cuyler Injury Severe Blow To Cubs

Pirates' Flag Threat Now Looms More Formidable.

Phils Seen as Dark Horse; Cards Can't Be Counted Out.

(This review of National League teams is another of a series of stories analyzing major league baseball prospects.)

WHEN Kiki Cuyler was carried from a Los Angeles ball park to a Hollywood hospital with a broken ankle, the pennant hopes of the Cubs may have ridden in the same ambulance. The National League champions, with all stars intact, had been looking with anxious eyes toward the shadow of a black pirate flag along the championship race track and the injury to the jinx-ridden Cuyler will make the Pittsburgh threat seem twice as great.

Frank Demaree, who will be shoved into the yawning spot in the Chicago outfield, is a good ball player and was a great one at times in the last world series, but it is no reflection on the former Sacramento player to say he is no Cuyler.

Kiki had been going great guns in spring practice and it will be little short of a baseball miracle if Demaree, a major league sophomore, can pick up where the postgraduate student left off.

Herman No Star on Defense.

The Cubs still have Herman, the great, to hit in a flock of runs but, alas, the right fielder almost certainly will kick in some for the other side before all the returns are compiled. The Cubs' long-distance hitter will pack a great offensive threat but he will not materially assist in plugging the defensive hole left by the departure of the fleet Cuyler.

Pittsburgh, rated the National League favorite before the starting gong sounds, has escaped injuries in spring training and, if its luck holds throughout the campaign, seems almost certainly the club to defeat. However, in other years the Pirates have felt the plague of hurts where they did the most harm.

Manager George Gibson will trot out a well-balanced team in perfect physical condition to start the ball rolling. The pitching may prove uncertain but at least the other managers face the same problem. The addition of Freddie Lindstrom has given Pittsburgh a great run-making outfield, a combination blessed, too, with ability to thwart the other fellows' efforts.

Phils May Prove to Be Dark Horse.

The Phillies are not often mentioned in connection with championships, and then only in whispers, but Burt Shotton leads a team with a powerful attack and with the luck every winning team needs he might ride a very dark horse into the middle of the pennant picture.

Certainly the Phillies can hit and they seem to have been definitely bettered by between-season trades.

The St. Louis Cardinals can not be counted out, if for no other reason than because they have more players available, at home and abroad, ashore and afloat, than any other two major league clubs.

The old "Sarge," Gabby Street, is in command of a pitching staff perhaps in a class by itself in the two big circuits. However, his infield is cluttered up with a series of question marks. Rogers Hornsby may or may not be able to carry on in the infield and at bat and, if the Rajah should prove only a shell of his former self, the Cards do not seem to have an immediate replacement.

Shortstop Berth Puzzle To Cards.

Shortstop, too, is something of a puzzle, and while Frank Frisch can play third base, he does not like the position. But good pitching is a big help and the sergeant can say "You pitch" to some eight big fellows and not go wrong.

Brooklyn will have a good offensive team in spite of some impotent hitting in the spring games. The addition of the veteran Joe Judge to play first base should prove a distinct advantage. Joseph has spent his baseball life in the American League, but he can still field with men many years his junior and is always a dangerous man at bat in a "pinch." Hack Wilson should be a better player this year than he was last season and the Dodgers seem to have picked up a recruit pitcher able to start and stick in Walter Beck from Memphis.

The Giants may fit in well with the current jig-saw puzzle craze and prove a great club when, and if, they are put together in proper sequence. In the spring, New York's pitching has seemed decidedly doubtful and while the starting line-up will be adequate, the reserve strength is none too strong for Manager Bill Terry's peace of mind.

Giants Short on Utility Talent.

Travis Jackson took care of his legs during the training season and played little, but he will be back in the game when the serious cannonading starts. His understudy, Jack Ryan, is as good a fielder as any one would want, but he has not been tested at bat. If injuries should attack the Giants in bulk, they might drop out of the league standing before rescue forces could be recruited.

Barring ill luck, the Giants should

Majors Split On Beer in Parks

New York, Chicago Among 5 Clubs to Dispense Brew.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, March 30 (A.P.).—Major league club owners today appeared evenly divided on the question of selling beer in the ball parks this season, which starts April 12, five days after the new 3.2 beer becomes nationally legalized.

Five clubs in as many cities have put themselves on record as opposed to selling beer, in or near the stands, but five others, concentrated in the two biggest cities, New York and Chicago, favor dispensing the new beverage to their followers.

The remaining six clubs are noncommittal, for various reasons. A majority in both circuits are awaiting the final enactment of State beer control legislation before taking definite action.

No Beer Sold in Stadium Here, Reported.

Regardless of developments, the word is that no beer will be sold in the parks at Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Washington and Pittsburgh. In explanation of the situation in the two Ohio cities, it is pointed out that the prospective new State law, controlling sales, will provide for consuming the brew only at tables.

Even where it is planned to put the beverage on sale, club owners apparently are agreed on a policy of not dispensing it among the customers in the stands, along with peanuts and popcorn. At Chicago beer will be sold at bars in the White Sox and Cub parks. Club owners of all three metropolitan New York teams, the Yankees, Giants and Dodgers, favor the sale of beer at concession stands, but no definite plans have been made, pending the outcome of a fight over State legislation at Albany.

Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the world champion Yankees, controls one of the biggest breweries in New York, but he has made no move as yet to put beer on sale at the Yankee Stadium for opening day.

Managements of the two St. Louis Clubs, although they use the same park, are divided on what they may do. The Browns probably will allow sales, beneath the stands only, but the Cardinals probably won't permit it.

At Boston and Philadelphia, each with two clubs, magnates have taken no action, pending the outcome of State beer control legislation.

Among the larger minor league cities, only Milwaukee so far reports plans to sell bottled beer in the stands. In preprohibition days there, barrooms operated under the stands, with beer on draft, but this will not be resumed, at least for the time being.

Junior Swimmers In Meet Tomorrow

Griffiths Win In A. A. U. Thriller

Zahn's Goal in Last Minute Defeats Typos, 35-34.

Olmsted, Rockville, Mt. Rainier Teams in Victories.

DEL ZAHN, first to bring the family name to the front in basket ball circles, but forced to pick up only the crumbs of court prestige since brother Otts made the grade at George Washington University, hurtled back into the limelight last night when he contributed a field goal which turned an apparent defeat into a 35-34 victory for the Griffith Consumers over their old rivals, the United Typewriter Grays.

And it was more than an ordinary victory for the Griffiths, who, by virtue thereof, moved into the semifinal round of the unlimited class of the District A. A. U. Championship Tournament which The Post is sponsoring at the Tech High Gymnasium. And it was more than an ordinary field goal that climaxed one of the most closely contested battles in tournament history hereabouts.

Zahn let the ball go from near midfloor with the watch hand well into the final minute of the game. The ball arched into the air and dropped through for the tying and winning point.

Olmsted Grills Enter Semifinals.

Although they failed to produce point-for-point battles, the three other games last night provided basket ball in competion with the high grade which has marked the tournament. The Olmstead Grill five advanced to the 145-pound semifinals via a 52-to-31 victory over the Washington Black Hawks; the Mount Rainier 130 pounders reached the finals as J. C. C. bowed, 31 to 20, and the Rockville senior girls gained the title round by beating the Typos Gray girls, 30 to 21.

Olmsted Grill played a steady brand of basket ball to eliminate the Black Hawks, recent surprise winners over St. Martin's. The Cafe Club rolled up a 26-17 lead in a hard-fought first half and was piling up the score the remainder of the route.

100-Pounders in Final Of A. A. U. Play Tonight

Delaware & Hudson plays Investigation tonight in the expected feature of tonight's District A. A. U. tournament at Tech High, which will be marked by the first final game of the series, involving the Clark Griffiths and Savoy A. C. in the 100-pound class.

Two other games round out the program. Rhode Island Avenue tackles the Knights of Columbus in the 145-pound semifinals and another semifinal battle brings together Mercury and the French A. C. in the 130-pound class.

The D. & H.-Investigation fray will bring together outstanding teams of the two leagues, the former being now involved in the play-off for the Community Center League title, while the latter has been prominent in the Departmental loop.

Cronin Shifts Lineup; Atlanta Bids for Linke

Special to The Washington Post.

Atlanta, Ga., March 30.—Manager Joe Cronin, for the third time this season, changed the batting order of the Nats here today, after the loss to Atlanta. He shifted Buddy Myer and Joe Kuhel about, making Kuhel the lead off man and Buddy the hit and run provider. The rest of the batting order remains unchanged.

Uncle Wilbert Robinson, fat president of the Crackers, today made a formal bid for the services of Ed Linke, stout Washington rookie pitcher. Joe Cronin and Clark Griffith withheld action.

Repaid, 20-1, Draws Play For Derby

Ladysman Still Choice as Odds Shift in Future Book.

By THOMAS H. NOONE.

NEW YORK, March 30 (U.P.).—As reports of early training activities trickle in, Tom Shaw, New York betting commissioner, is making daily changes in his "future book" line on the $50,000 added Kentucky Derby to be run on May 6 over the mile and a quarter route at Churchill Downs.

According to the figures released today, Ladysman, William R. Coe's juvenile champion of 1932, with earnings of $111,435, continues favorite at 10 to 1, but players are reluctant to place wagers on the son of Pompey at this figure until they get further reassurance from Trainer Bud Stotler that he has fully outgrown the infirmities which caused his shelving before the Pimlico Futurity last fall.

Repaid Backed At 20-1.

The Quincy Stable's Repaid, which earned his modest purchase price of $1,200 more than ten-fold last year and about which glowing accounts of fitness have been received from Aqueduct, is attracting considerable support at 20 to 1. This price may also be had on E. R. Bradley's Boilermaker, F. A. Griffith's Sarada and C. V. Whitney's The Darb.

The commissioner is willing to lay 25 to 1 against Bobsled, another Bradley Colt, as well as Dynastic from the Greentree Stable and Lee Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, winner of the Belmont Futurity last year.

Adolphe Pons' Swivel, the smart filly that tucked the Pimlico Futurity under saddle at the expense of a large field, is rated a 30-to-1 chance. Shaw holding that the Derby is not a "filly race." Charley O., which won the Florida Derby for the Robert M. Eastman Estate less than a fortnight back, is cut 70 points down to this level. Mrs. William Crump's Head Play remains unchanged at 30 to 1, while Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Crowning Glory was also pared ten points to a like figure.

Caterwaul's Odds Up to 50-1.

The most prominent candidate to have his odds boosted is C. V. Whitney's Caterwaul, which is jacked up ten points and quoted at 50 to 1. Hal Price Headley's filly, Technique, is rated a 60-to-1 shot, as are the Glen Riddle Farm's War Glory and Wave On from the Sagamore Stable.

Another to feel the ax sharply is Shepherd Boy, a Kentuckian owned by Laffoon and Yeiser, which is now 40 to 1 as against an opening quotation of 100 to 1. C. C. Van Meter's Red Whisk, which was backed down to 50 to 1 in the Western books, was only cut a trifle and can still be had at 30 to 1 at Shaw's counter.

From this point the prices skyrocket, with a top of 5,000 to 1 being obtainable on Hek and Uncle Donald.

With the Nats

Special to The Washington Post.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 30.—Unlucky Bobby Burke, the fall guy, was called upon today, in nice gentlemanly fashion to get out there tomorrow and pitch some baseball for the Nats against Atlanta, so's us magnates could see just what improvement has stricken the lean left-hander since being exiled to Chattanooga's ball club for a bit of tooth pulling and arm ironing.

Burke will relieve Earl Whitehill, who will start the game and pitch five innings of it, provided Big Sington suffers a relapse.

"One of those spring plants," said Dave Harris, who used to be a left fielder himself, in discussing the Sington situation after the game. In fact, that was the consensus of most of your complacent big leaguers. Most of them believe that Fred is a flash in the pan, like most rookies.

I guess it's because he only batted .392 for Beckley in the Middle Atlantic League last year.

Al Schacht, the retiring coach, today entered a bugle blowing contest, to be staged tomorrow in front of Loew's Grand Theater here in conjunction with the showing of the picture with the goofy title of "Gabriel Over the White House." Volume, not caliber is what is wanted in the contest.

As might be suspected, the originator of the contest is Eddy Gilmore, who used to prey on managing editors and dramatic critics for publicity for Washington's Loew's theaters, before being traded to Atlanta for Mickey Mouse. Placing a 10-foot square poster across the front of the old Russian embassy and arranging for the appearance of both Sidney Franklin, the bull thrower, and Mister Cow from the Chestnut Farms Dairy, on the lawn of Mrs. Shoreham's rooming house, were among Eddy's nefarious schemes in Washington.—H. Ernie Dusek Victor Over Grobmier

Leg-Scissors Expert Bows to Crab Hold in 41 Minutes.

Kampfer Puts Rudy Away; 5,000 See Spirited Card.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

ONE of the season's largest crowds, approximately 5,000 fans, flocked to the Auditorium last night for the weekly mat show, and were fortunate enough to see one of the most entertaining pachyderm performances of the year. From the first to the last there was action, and an abundance of belt-tightening laughs; and to the huge satisfaction of the more verbose guests in the audience, ample room for a couple of hearty razzberries.

Energetic Ernie Dusek, who promises to inherit all, and a few more, of the bronx berries that have sprouted from the somewhat uncouth ring manners of older brother Rudy, pinned Legs Grobmier's wriggling shoulders to the mat in 41 minutes of the semi-windup, the cofeature, of the evening.

Grobmier, with a stare as vacant as an unrented store, lost after securing his pet scissors hold on the young member of that staid old German family. Ernie simply stood up, leaned over far enough to touch Legs' shoulders, and Umpire Burns patted him on the back. The hold was described as the crab.

Rudy Exhibits Rough Stuff.

But it took the one and only Rudy to demonstrate that the Duseks have lost none of their skill at roughing it up. Stolid Hans Kampfer, a good looking gent, late of Germany, with one of those physical culture ad appearances, endured Rudy's ungentle handling for 37 minutes, and then slapped him down on the carpet in approved fashion with a crotch hold.

Mr. Burns O. K.'d the move with a nod of his bald head, while a wave of approving applause swept through the place, and Kampfer was in line for a bout with Londos—the next time the little fellow gets around this way.

Tom Alley unpacked his Australian championship for the edification of all concerned and convinced Marshall Blackstock that he was in the right ring but with the wrong man. The convincing procedure required 14 minutes and ended with an alleged alligator crotch hold. That had 'em puzzled.

Everett Marshall hurried the card along by polishing off Gene le Deaux in six minutes, and from then on the Dusek boys and their playmates took the situation in hand, Karl Davis having previously thrown Frank Brunowicz in 17½ minutes.

HECHT TOSSERS OUT.

Hecht Co., runners'-up in the Department Store League last season, will begin preparations for its baseball season Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock on diamond No. 7, Monument Grounds. All players are urged to report promptly.

1st Game Reservations Will Expire on Monday

Secretary Edward B. Eynon of Washington Baseball Club yesterday announced that ticket reservations for the opening American League game between the Nats and the Athletics, on April 12, will be held no longer than Monday.

On Tuesday all reservations not called for will be placed on general sale, Mr. Eynon announced.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

JAWN McGRAW, who has forsaken the diamond for the ovsl—at Tropical Park—has been exceedingly outspoken in Florida concerning the pastime he adorned for more than 40 years as a fire-eating player and manager.

"There's nothing wrong with baseball or the people that support baseball," says McGraw. "It's the player that's wrong. He's gotten too much money in the past and he's lacked aggressiveness.

"The player of the last five or six years has been paid a big salary and he got used to luxuries. He became soft. He lost his punch. He lost his fire. He didn't want to overwork himself.

"One of the best things that could happen to baseball has been the retrenchment in salaries. You'll see some scrap this season. And more next year. The game will be played as it was played 10 or 15 years ago."

Dash and Fire of Old Is Lacking.

Come to think of it, McGraw may be right. It has been an easy life for the ball players. The dash and fire of 10 or 15 years ago has not been constant in the big leagues. The trend of the times probably had a lot to do with it.

A ball player with even a spark of talent drew a salary that shamed the wages of the stars of two decades ago. The stakes were larger, but other occupations and vocations in the predepression era offered fruitful returns. A player who lost his baseball job could retire to his billiard parlor or his bowling alley or sporting goods store and turn a pretty penny for himself.

While those days may not be gone forever, they are not at hand this season. Every ball player is fully aware this year that a baseball job in the big leagues is something to be nursed and cherished, monetarily speaking. The veterans will be in there running out all the base hits to keep their jobs and the rookies, all of whom are ambitious this season, will redouble their efforts to crash the big time.

Hogan Cited as Example By McGraw.

McGraw pointed to Shanty Hogan, the big catcher, as an example of what he meant by ball players becoming soft after earning big salaries.

"When Hogan was with the Boston Braves he got a very small salary," said McGraw. "He played great ball and was one of the most aggressive catchers since Bresnahan. I liked him and I bought him.

"He came to the Giants and made good. I paid him well, more than he expected. And what happened? As soon as he got big money, he became soft. He found out what luxury was and he became so fat he was useless to us.

"When he was with Boston he didn't have enough money left at the end of the season to last him until spring, so he got a construction job during the winter months, doing hard work. He reported in the spring in great shape, hard as nails. With us, he didn't work in the winter. He sat around and got fat. When he joined the club and tried to get in shape it was too much effort."

Central High Lists 18 Tennis Matches

Eighteen matches are on the schedule of the Central High School tennis team, announced yesterday. The racqueters will take no extensive trips, but several short jaunts into Maryland and Virginia for matches with prep schools are carded.

With four lettermen returning the Blue looks forward to a winning season. Johnny Yeomans, Morris Rosenberg, Albert Robins and Sam Root won their "C last year. Rosenberg is captain of the squad and Robins manager.

BANDERLOG TRIUMPHS AT TROPICAL PARK

Whitney Star Sets Track Record

Covers 1 1-16 Miles in 1:44 2-5; Beau Jolie Next to Finish.

TROPICAL PARK, March 30 (A.P.).—Banderlog, in the light blue and brown silks of the popular C. V. Whitney establishment, smashed the track record for 1 1-16 miles in recording his second victory in a row in the featured fourth event here this afternoon. The gelded son of Chicle completed his journey in 1:44 2-5, or two-fifths of a second better than the mark held by Action. Banderlog beat Beau Jolie by a half length, while Billy Champ lost the place by two lengths.

Banderlog was well ridden by Alfred Robertson and the combination paid $12.60 for $2. Wise Advocate, favorite, with H. Richards up, performed dully and was poorly handled, being steered behind the leaders turning into the stretch and then taken around to the outside.

Noelwood Weakens at Head Of Stretch.

Beau Jolie and Noelwood staged a pretty duel for the lead until the head of the stretch, where the latter weakened. Banderlog was kept clear of trouble on the outside and under Robertson's strong finish, overtook Beau Jolie in the final sixteenth. Billy Champ finished well to beat the tired Noelwood.

Bedight was a surprise package in the first event, getting up in the last stride to win by a nose. He paid $45.10. Liqueur, also showing improvement, took the place from Claremont by a length and a half. Liqueur held on well after racing Claremont into defeat, but Dedight's strong bid on the outside was too much for the pacemaker in the final strides. Out Bound dropped out of contention in the first furlong. He was a fast-closing fourth.

Linke Eager to Make Good To Boost Average at Plate

Nats' Rookie Fed Up on Foodless Days in the Minors.

Special to The Washington Post.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 30.—This fatty-fatty-boombalatty kid, Ed Linke, who is pitching himself into a regular's berth on the Nats' trip home, is pretty full of awareness, for a rookie.

"Cheez," says Master Linke, in his best Chicagoese, "all a guy needs nowadays is publicity, you know what I mean, publicity. Let 'em call me Fatso and Hippo and maybe even 'Missing.' Just as long as they call me something."

If there is such a thing as a typical Chicagoan, Linke's "It." He's just a breeze, enthusiastic as a cyclone, inordinately cheerful and likes everybody. Without the last two attributes he couldn't very well have lived through a season with Davenport, for whom he had to pitch every other day or so, and play in the outfield on his days off. He pitched, and won a double-header, played right field the next day and came back and pitched and won another game the following day.

Allowed Dollar a Day For Food.

Like many another member of a poverty stricken minor league club, he traveled with his colleagues in buses from town to town, stopped at honky-tonk hotels and got a $1 food allowance a day, which is a somewhat microscopic sum in comparison with his ample tummy and 204 pounds of what the boys call heft.

Those foodless Davenport days have burned an indelible brand in his memory. "Cheez," he says, "I hope I stick with Washington until we go to Philly. I know a girl there and can get some home cooking."

Ed can't understand why Mike Martin frets about having a pitcher on the club who is built like a beer barrel. Ed says his weight'll come in handy—mighty handy, bub—during the dog days "when them skinny guys like Gomez and them fold up."

Hired and Fired By White Sox.

Ed almost got a job with the White Sox two years ago, when he was 18. He had won 24 out of 26 for Crane College, a junior educational institution in Chicago, and had been playing a little semipro ball on the side, incognito, when Donie Bush, the time-table manager who happened to be in charge of the White Sox that year, picked him up to pitch to the Chicago batters, as they are jokingly called. Ed thought he had made good when Donie sent him a contract at the end of the 1931 season, but when Lew Fonseca took charge of the club Ed got his contract back—voided.

Jorgens, the Yankee catcher, told Ed to scoot back to the minors; it was his only hope. He, the boy from the big city, made good with Davenport. The thing he remembers the most about Davenport, outside of the general absence of food, was the shower of kisses the ample mammas of that electic old hamlet rained on him after he pitched a no-hit-no-run-strike-out-18 game vs. worthy old Twin Falls.

Ed likes to take long walks. He was in Washington with the White Sox two years ago and says he took a little stroll all around that there place called Rock Crick Park one morning. "I'm funy that way. I can just walk and walk."

"You sure can, buddy, you sure can," spoke up Luke Sewell, who had caught Eddie the day before.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: TROPICAL PARK, MARCH 30.

Track officials here are rubbing their eyes these days. The crowds have steadily increased and there actually is some real money around. Play, which has been around the $100,000 mark daily for the meeting, reached $150,000 yesterday and was near that figure today. Tomorrow is likely to set a record. Most horsemen believe that Maryland's tracks will fare better this spring than they did last fall. And while watching the return of prosperity, I beg to report that Mr. Bennings is broke. Did I hear someone say GOOD? BILL.

FIRST RACE—Might do worse than try LAURA GAL in this sprint. She was well regarded last spring but has been trying since the winter season opened to win a race. Has perked up considerably of late and appears due. JUDGE PRIMROSE is being worked overtime these days but may take the place ahead of TOMBEREAU.

SECOND RACE—MORDEN really gave the boys a going over here the other day and off that effort should come romping home tomorrow. BRAN MUFFIN has a good last to point to for place recommendation. SEMESTER for the show end.

THIRD RACE—CALGARY KAY may draw a stronger rider tomorrow and take care of this field. I still believe INDIANTOWN can figure in a race of this kind. Worth an across-the-board wager. SCREECH may be as good as third.

FOURTH RACE—JAZ AGE has gone back several miles since last year but still holds enough speed to take care of these at 5½ furlongs. MAE SWEEP and WHISKING should be in the thick of the battle for place honors.

FIFTH RACE—I'm going to stick to BROADWAY LIGHTS in this mile. Gets in with only 107 pounds and in present form is going to give a lot of battle to this field. GOLD STEP, with 122 up, will have REVEILLE BOY to defeat for the second money.

SIXTH RACE—MATADI is the word that has been passed to me. Chief contention will come from MISS CORRINE, an improved mare at this writing, and the top-weighted IMPEACH.

SEVENTH RACE—HONEY LOCUST, as I warned you some time ago, is in excellent form now despite the fact they were unable to put him over secretly. Comes to this with only 101 pounds and may step lively all the way home. STARBOARD LIGHT and TRY IT for the rest.

EIGHTH RACE—MERIDIAN QUEEN is getting good again and is a possible upset winner of this mile-and-an-eighth test. FORT DEARBORN and the lightly-weighted DODIODO for the other money positions.

Spence Brothers Land Swim Titles

New York, March 30 (A.P.).—Walter and Wallace Spence, two members of a finny Brooklyn family, won half the four titles awarded tonight at the opening of the annual three day competition for the National Amateur Athletic Union championships at the New York Athletic Club.

Walter, national collegiate 100 yard free style champion, a student at Rutgers University, won the century by a yard from Al Schwartz, former national titleholder, of Chicago, in the comparatively slow time of 53.6 seconds.

Wallace won the 300-yard medley, consisting of one third breast stroke, another third back stroke, and the final 100 yards of free style, after a strenous tussle with John Schmeiler, Big Ten champion from the University of Michigan.

DUNLAP SEEN CHOICE AT PINEHURST

North-South Amateur Opens Today With Stellar Field.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 30 (A.P.).—George T. Dunlap, jr., of Garden City, Long Island, reigned a strong favorite tonight for the thirty-third annual North and South amateur golf tournament, beginning tomorrow, because of his sparkling play in the North and South open in which he topped all amateurs and many of the country's leading professionals by turning in a 72-hole score of 287.

Dunlap, former Princeton links star and twice national intercollegiate champion, will challenge the supremacy of M. Pierpont Warner, of New Haven, Conn., a Yale student, who is the defending champion.

Others expected to be among those to fight it out for the honors include Johnny Parker, East Orange, N. J.; Tommy Goodwin, Monroe, N. Y., who was an outstanding figure in the Florida tournaments; J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., a veteran of play here and in Florida; Hamilton Wright, Garden City, Long Island; Richard Jones, jr., Larchmont, N. Y.; Jack Toomer, Jacksonville, the Florida State champion, and Halbert Blue, Aberdeen, N. C., the Carolinas champion.

CUBS' HOPES FADE WITH CUYLER HURT

be able to keep out of the cellar, and, if this proves to be the case, it is bad news for the Boston Braves and Cincinnati Reds. Boston has a mixture of old and young players, but apparently lacks the vital spark to enable the club to compete on even terms with at least four or five of the others and fight its way into the first division.

Cincinnati, under new management, piloted this year by the peppery and shrewd Donie Bush, has definitely improved, but so have most of the other fellows. Sunny Jim Bottomley has brought his big bat to Redland Field, where base hits can be used at all times. Time was when the best batsman on the Reds was Red Lucas, also the best pitcher. The redhead will welcome some assistance.

Donie Bush will fight hard to get the Reds out of the cellar, and the effort may be as interesting as that of some of the more favored clubs to achieve and hold first place.

Huttick Seen As Test for Kennedy

New York Star Won 7 of 9 Bouts in '32; Shaded by Barry.

IF Les Kennedy, tough Montanan, thinks he will have something easy thrown in his path Tuesday night when he battles Arthur Huttick, of New York, at Portner's Arena in the 10-round feature match, the former Pacific Coast heavyweight champion had better change his mind right away.

A 6-footer, tipping the scales at 190 pounds, Huttick is a former Metropolitan light-heavyweight and heavyweight champion. He also held similar titles in the New York National Guard, and was lured into the profession following a number of triumphs in National Golden Gloves competition, during which he won the light-heavyweight championship.

Huttick Once K. O. Specialist.

Active in the professional ranks since 1930, Huttick has specialized in knockouts. Among his victims are Ralph Hamby, Seconda Sandina, Henry Gerkin, Mickey Taylor, Owen Flynn, Billy Schwartz, Benny Edell and Jack Sperry.

His 1932 record shows seven victories and two defeats. He knocked out Artie Rodenback and Jack McCarthy, of New York, and decisioned Bob Olin, Eddie Benson, Natie Brown, of Washington; Unknown Winston and Walter Cobb. He suffered loses by close decision at the hands of Tony Shucco

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

NAMES in the family album of the Crosen family of Cross Junction, Va., look like those in a United States geography, for twelve States are represented in the names of the parents and ten children. The idea of naming children after States was not original with Mr. and Mrs. Crosen, for both their own parents named them for States in the Union. Mr. Crosen was christened "Utah," and his wife was formerly Miss Rhode Island Place. The children of Utah and Rhode Island were named after ten other States—the sons, Vermont, Georgia, Montana, Kansas, Oklahoma, and the daughters, Virginia, Minnesota, Maryland, Florida and Tennessee. When Mr. and Mrs. Crosen were married the county clerk gave them the license without charge because of their patriotic names—and they, in turn, named one of their daughters after the State that so honored them.

WHY NOT RHYME ALL THE PERSONAL ADS?

I PEN these lines to Minny Hanff

But all my letters have miscarried—
Perhaps, Miss Hanff, you've since been married.
If from the dumps you'd rescue him,
Please drop a line, my sweet, to Jim.

The institute was ushered in last night with a radio address by Sanford Bates, director of the United States Bureau of Prisons, on "The Juvenile Delinquent."

French Disarming Policy Is Explained

Dr. Dorsert Asserts Hitler Regime Prevents More Rapid Progress.

Although France has been reducing armaments, she has been obliged to take certain precautions to defend herself because of conditions in Germany under the Hitler regime, Dr. Leon Dorsert, of Georgetown University, told the Cosmopolitan Club yesterday.

Dr. Dorsert made a plea for a better understanding between the United States and France, based on the friendly relations established in 1776 and again in 1917. The speaker attributed the failure of France to pay her war debt installment to the United States partly to the moratorium arranged by former President Hoover.

There is considerable agitation on the part of French business men in favor of immediate payment, Dr. Dorsert said. Attendance prizes at the luncheon were won by F. W. Davis and Dr. Edward Horen.

SHORTAGE OF FUNDS SHUTS DOOR ON NEW RELIEF APPLICANTS

Scale of Aid Being Given to 10,000 Families to Be Cut After April 8.

Despite the fact that applications for unemployment aid are still pouring in at the rate of between 300 and 400 a week, the emergency relief committee of the Board of Public Welfare late yesterday directed Leroy A. Halbert, director of relief, to accept no new cases until July 1 because of an extreme shortage of funds.

Moreover, after April 8 the scale of relief now being administered to approximately 10,000 families will be cut about 25 per cent to enable the committee to carry on until the end of the fiscal year.

The only hope the committee has is that the Wagner-La Follette-Costigan relief bill will be passed in the interim, thus providing close to $1,250,000 for District relief.

Summary of Finances.

Sidney P. Taliaferro, committee chairman, issued a statement yesterday summing up the financial situation and setting forth the committee's plan. It follows:

"The emergency relief committee of the Board of Public Welfare, at a meeting held this afternoon, found that the report of the supervisor for the week ending March 25 showed:

"The sum of $38,148.98 expended during said week (during the previous week the sum of $41,382.54 was expended), that since August 1, 1932, 19,396 applications for relief have been received, that on March 25, 9,564 families were listed for relief payments, that 442 new applications had been received during the week ending that date and that 977 applications were pending.

Balance of $461,475.

"There remains an unexpended balance of $461,475.88 to cover the period of 14 weeks from March 25 to June 30. It requires approximately 10 days to regear the machinery to accomplish the reduction of outgo.

"In view of these facts and the lack of authority to create a deficit, the committee determined:

"First—To approve maximum expenditures, for all purposes, during the next two weeks of $41,000 per week.

"Second — Approve expenditures thereafter of $31,628 per week for the remaining 12 weeks to June 30.

80 Cents a Week.

"Third—Directed that no new cases be accepted for relief payments.

"The committee took this action with the greatest reluctance and regret realizing that serious hardship would necessarily result, but felt that it had no alternative because of the necessity of keeping within the appropriation."

The reduction in weekly expenditures after April 6 will bring the per capita relief down to about 80 cents a week or a little more than $3.10 a case, which averages four persons.

Some destitute persons may be dropped altogether or else receive aid every other week.

Even More Pessimistic.

Public welfare officials are even more pessimisitc regarding the immediate future in view of the Federal economy program.

George S. Wilson, director, pointed out that whenever employes are dropped from pay rolls, the applications for relief increase.

The problem of unemployment relief has steadily increased since last August, when administration of the first $300,000 began. Although Congress has twice since appropriated additional funds and though the Community Chest has donated $100,000, the committee has never been able to raise the scale of relief to a livable wage.

Retirement Pay Urged For Wives of Workers

Representative William I. Sirovich (Democrat), New York, yesterday introduced a bill to permit widows of retired Government workers to draw part of the retirement pay of their mates after death.

The measure would permit such widows to draw three-fourths of their deceased husbands' retirement compensation. The condition was made that they must be 40 years old or over and must have been married ten years.

Dividend Checks Ready At Departmental Bank

The Departmental Bank yesterday announced that the first supplementary dividend checks of 30 per cent are now ready for distribution. These checks, it was explained, are for persons whose claims were not filed in time for the original payment.

For the convenience of its creditors the bank, at 1726 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, will be open from 8:30 a. m. until 10 p. m.

Post Staff Photo

CAPPER AND GREEN TO PROTEST RENTS

Mass Meeting at McKinley School Tonight Called by U. S. Employes.

An overflow crowd is expected to jam the auditorium at McKinley High School tonight, when protests are voiced against the continued high cost of housing in Washington at a mass meeting sponsored by the American Federation of Government Employes.

Principal speakers will include Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas; Representative Virginia Jenckes, of Indiana, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. They will discuss the legislative viewpoint on the movement to cut housing costs and the need for matching reduced incomes with lower rents.

The high cost of housing in the District from the standpoint of possible remedial action through legislation will be Senator Capper's topic. Representatives Jenckes will speak on "The District of Columbia as a Home," and Mr. Green will discuss the cost of living in Washington, with reference to wage reductions and unemployment.

The membership of all civic and Federal and business organizations have been invited to attend the meeting.

"It is the firm belief of Government workers," a statement from the arrangements committee read, "that housing costs are too high in Washington. Because of the 15 per cent salary reduction for Federal workers and similar wage cuts for those in private employment, it is our intention to make a concerted effort to bring down the cost of housing."

Requiem Mass Monday To Be for Senator Walsh

A solemn requiem month's mind mass will be said for the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Eighth and N streets northwest, Monday at 12:15 p. m. The services will be attended by the relatives and Capitol Hill associates of the senator. The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the church, will be celebrant of the service, assisted by the Rev. S. A. Czyz, deacon, and the Rev. J. Kelly Reese, subdeacon.

The music will be directed by Harry Wheaton Howard, with Miss Florence Yocum, soprano, and Miss Kathryn Bowers, contralto, as soloist.

Variation of Resources Held Enemy of Concord

Ways in which many difficulties between nations are caused by variations in natural mineral resources were explained by Prof Hugh S. Taylor, of the faculty of Princeton University, in an address before the Princeton alumni association of Washington at a luncheon at the University Club yesterday.

Prof. Taylor explained that the distribution of the mineral resources bring on heavy taxation and tariff changes which affect the interrelationships of people. Laboratories hold the key to future world power, he declared.

PLAN TRIES TO AVOID POLICE DISMISSALS

Maj. Brown Hopes to Keep All on Job by Failing to Fill Vacancies.

Rather than dismiss any policemen in the event the 1934 budget estimate is enacted in its present form, Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, hopes to keep all men on the job by filling no vacancies.

Under the present estimate it would appear that the dismissal of 47 men would be necessary. However, Maj. Brown expects to be able to meet the curtailment in the estimate by no replacements.

At present there are nine vacancies in the department, with the possibility of several more in the next few months. There will probably be a number of retirements because of disability when the general medical examination of the policemen takes place next month.

The numerical strength of the department will be lessened by 47 men within the year, but Maj. Brown plans to keep the patrol force at its present level by withdrawing men from special assignments.

B. D. MacDonald to Talk To Geographic Society

Byron D. MacDonald, a modern Odysseus, frequent visitor to the scenes where the many-minded Odysseus found adventure, will present the National Geographic Society's closing lecture in the Washington Auditorium tonight. The subject will be "New Odysseys for Old."

With colored slides and moving pictures taken by himself during repeated visits to the eastern Mediterranean, Mr. MacDonald will show what remains of the ancient glory in the palace of the Minotaur, many-walled Troy, the haunt of the muses on Parnassus, the site of the Colossus of Rhodes, the monastic republic of Mount Athos, from whose green promontory all women are barred.

Champion of Fugitives Again in Police Toils

James H. Harley, 22, colored, who has escaped police on several occasions, was captured again yesterday near Eighteenth and Gale streets northeast by Policeman John Sirola, of the Ninth Precinct, and W. E. Stein, superintendent of the Occoquan wharf. Harley escaped from Occoquan last summer after being sentenced for stealing an automobile.

Last February Harley was arrested in Maryland, but escaped two hours after being locked in the LaPlata jail. Two days later he was cornered by Washington police but evaded capture by leaping from a second-story window. Still later he was found on Fourth street northwest, and again leaped from an upstairs window.

House Group Clerk In Traffic Accident

Taxi Driver Is Seriously Hurt When Barnes' Car and Cab Collide.

William P. Atkinson, 47, of 1841 Kalorama road northwest, a taxicab driver, was seriously injured last night when his cab was in collision with the automobile of Isaac R. Barnes, clerk of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, at Tenth and E streets northwest.

The impact overturned Atkinson's cab and it was with difficulty that passers-by extracted him from the wreckage. Witnesses declared Barnes was making a left-hand turn into Tenth street and struck the taxi.

Atkinson was taken to Emergency Hospital by a motorist. Physicians said he suffered a possible fracture of the skull and severe lacerations. Barnes was not held.

"Be Careful!"

MAJ. LEONARD SAYS HE DOES NOT WANT COMMISSIONER JOB

Backing Another, He Says; Bride Is Republican, Patman States.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Maj. Henry Leonard, United States Marine Corps, retired, yesterday put the quietus on the efforts of his friends to advance his name for consideration as District Commissioner.

"I am badly tainted with incurable Republicanism, am actively connected with the party in Colorado, am a legal resident and a voter in that State, and hence am ineligible for the position," he said.

Maj. Leonard, who has law offices in the Investment Building and is recognized as eminent in his profession, had been seriously advanced by some of his friends, among whom are some influential Washington residents.

Is Backing Another.

The major, whose empty coat sleeve flaps in the breeze when he doesn't tie it down, as a result of a shattered arm incurred in the course of his Marine Corps service, said he was interested in the candidacy of another for the post.

Nearly two-score names have been presented at the White House for the jobs but no decision has been reached. As nearly as can be ascertained, the President has not even got around to the point of weeding out the obvious ones. It will be a week or two before he does, it was said. Pressure of national business of emergency character has compelled his attention.

Meanwhile, the campaigns of various candidates are going merrily forward. Henry Gilligan is said to be the "dark horse" candidate of one of the members of the Cabinet. He has been indorsed by some of the citizens associations.

Vigorous Campaign.

Although nothing will be done about the job of corporation counsel until after the new Commissioners are appointed, those who want the job, which now is held by William W. Bride, are conducting an active and vigorous campaign. Representative Wright Patman (Democrat), Texas, noted principally for his sponsorship of increased payments to veterans, yesterday wrote a letter to Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, in which he declared Mr. Bride is a Republican.

Representative Patman said Mr Bride had contributed $100 to the Republican campaign fund four years ago. Although Mr. Bride refused to make any statement friends said he had contributed several times that amount to the Democratic campaign fund and pointed out that he and all of his family of voting age had been registered as Democrats and had voted as such while they had their home in Edgemoor, in Montgomery County, Md. The Patman letter was in response to a letter from Mrs. Norton, in which she asked support of the members of the House District Committee for the retention of Mr. Bride in his post. Refusal of Mr. Patman to go along with the other members of the committee was something of a surprise.

Northeast Tradesmen Favor Arthur Smith

The candidacy of Arthur Clarendon Smith for District Commissioner was indorsed last night by the Northeast Business Men's Association.

Former Girl Student Is Indicted in Larceny

Two indictments, charging housebreaking and larceny, were returned by the District grand jury yesterday against Virginia E. Turner, 19, former Western High School student.

The larceny of a coat valued at $150 from the locker of Marion H. Volkman at the high school, and the theft of clothing valued at $60 from the apartment of June and Sara Coe on Cathedral avenue northwest, are charged.

Frankenstein Is Sought As Witness to Shooting

"Frankenstein" was being sought by police last night in connection with a shooting at 1329 Ninth street northwest. Edward Johnson, 36, colored, 813 M street, was shot and seriously injured, allegedly by William Brown, 40, colored, of 1329 Ninth street northwest. Johnson is said to be in a serious condition at Freedmen's Hospital.

The only witness to the shooting is known only as "Frankenstein."

Jackson to Speak at Forum.

James A. Jackson, of the Department of Commerce, will be the principal speaker at the initial public meeting of the Young Peoples Forum tonight at the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Eleventh and K streets northwest. His subject will be "The Negro and Applied Economics."

Leakage

In Character Causes View of "What's the Use?" Pastor Claims.

Anyone who is inclined to nurse sadness or to give up the struggle and say, "What's the use?" is bound to suffer from "character leakage," said the Rev. Dr. Thomas V. Moore, C. S. B., in a lecture yesterday at the Carlton Hotel.

Dr. Moore, who is professor of psychology at the Catholic University, compared character to a large reservoir which is empty at birth but filled in the course of education. Normal mental and physical hygiene in the first years of life prevents the neuroses of childhood, he said.

"From contacts with members of the family, and then at school, arise new moral problems and new principles are poured into the reservoir of character. Ideals are developed by reading. And so in various ways a system of intellectual habits and moral virtues is developed and the child becomes a man of character," he said.

The lecture was the last of a series for the benefit of St. Gertrude's School of Arts and Crafts.

Formality May Delay District Beer Selling

Licensing Board Confronted With Huge Task in Determining Who Shall Receive Permits; Applications Now Total 584.

There is grave danger that thirsty Washingtonians will not be able to quench their thirst for beer on April 7 in the District unless Congress pushes through the municipal beer bill early next week.

Vernon E. West, chairman of a beer licensing board named by the Commissioners, said yesterday that it is extremely doubtful whether his committee can pass upon the 584 applications for licenses to sell beer within two or three days.

The committee will hold its first meeting today and will determine questions of policy, as well as decide upon the form of applications and permits to be issued. One of the major questions, he said, is whether the committee shall pass upon the applications for licenses in the order in which they have been received, or shall hold up all licenses until they can be issued simultaneously.

Adoption of the latter policy would in all probability delay the quenching of Washington's thirst, whereas the former would be certain to be attacked as unfair by those who failed to receive licenses by April 7.

Under the terms of the District beer bill as it passed the House, a thorough investigation must be made of each license applicant's character and business. Such an inquiry would probably require several days, Mr. West said. As the committee has no facilities for making such an investigation, the police doubtless would have to be enlisted.

Not only will application forms have to be printed, but copies of these forms will have to be mailed all persons who have written in requests for licenses. These, in turn, must be sent back, properly filled out, by the applicants. Then the committee must investigate each one separately before a license is granted.

These applications have been pouring into the office of Daniel E. Garges, secretary to the Commissioners, at the rate of more than 100 a day this week. Yesterday there were 119, bringing the total to 584. The total by the time the beer bill is passed may well run into several thousand, thus making it impossible for all of them to get into operation by April 7.

Among the applicants yesterday were eight women and six hotels, the latter being the Mayflower, Occidental, Blackstone, New Winston, Continental and Martinique.

The Post on Tuesday erroneously stated that an operator of three Peoples Drug Stores had applied for licenses. It should have said that the applicant, D. Del Vecchio, operates three Peoples Hardware Stores.

A. U. DEBATE TEAM WINS OVER OBERLIN

Washington College Women Take Affirmative Side of Cancellation Issue.

Contending that a prosperous Europe is essential to the economic well-being of the United States, American University's women debate team won a victory over the Oberlin College debate trio last night on the question of war debt cancellation.

The Washington team, arguing for cancellation, based its attack on the inability of European nations to meet their indebtedness at the present time and also on the fact that on Europe depends, to a great extent, the economic stability of America.

The Oberlin team contended that cancellation would endanger world trade and greatly increase the American taxpayeds' burden. The visitors offered in rebuttal a plan for revision of debts, stating that the benefits of cancellation would thus be derived without the tax burden.

The three members of the A. U. team were Ann Henderson, Ruth Bolden and Winona Buchanan. Fiancella McWilliams, Eone Goodenough and Eva May Parker represented the Oberlin, Ohio, College. Mrs. Elwood Street, a graduate of Oberlin, acted as chairman. The judges were Dr. H. A. Smith, principal of Central High School; Dr. H. T. Wilson, principal of National Park Seminary, and Dr. E. C. Highbee, president of Wilson Teachers College.

Taxicab Driver Reports Fifth Holdup by Thugs

Ernest H. Morningstar, a taxicab driver, of 330 Fourteenth street northwest, is becoming weary of having to turn over his hard-earned profits to holdup thugs.

Morningstar was held up for the fifth time during the past few months early yesterday and robbed of $4.45 by two men he had driven to Second and C streets northwest.

There are 70 boys in the club, and the garden work will be supervised by W. R. Beattie, senior horticulturist of the Department of Agriculture.

EDUCATION BOARD ELECTION FAVORED

Appointive System Attacked at Meeting of Conduit Road Citizens.

A resolution calling for the election instead of appointment of members to the District Board of Education was approved last night at a meeting of the Conduit Road Citizens Association at the Community Church.

Following a heated debate, the association voted to retain its present name. George W. Offutt, local attorney, and William M. Clayton, active worker in the District citizens associations, were indorsed for District Commissioners.

The association bitterly opposed any reduction in the appropriation of funds for District public schools and the importation of labor on District contracts.

It was agreed to send a resolution to the Federation of Citizens Associations calling for at least a 10 per cent reduction in District water rates.

Lucian Jordan, president, presided.

Trolley Route Changes Data Asked by P. U. C.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday asked the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. to keep it informed of all changes in routes contemplated under the proposed merger so that the actual consolidation might be facilitated once a plan is agreed upon by the special committees.

Thomas R. Tate, chief engineer of the commission, will make a study of these route changes as they are submitted and will advise the commission as to their practicability.

Comdr. J. Q. Walton, Coast Guard, to Retire

Commander John Q. Walton, 1725 New Hampshire avenue northwest, after nearly 30 years of service, will be retired from the United States Coast Guard tomorrow with the rank of commander. Commander Walton has had a large part in the construction of Coast Guard vessels.

His service began in the old Revenue Cutter Service, which was merged later into the Coast Guard. He was a pioneer in ship's radio work and for many years had charge of wireless on Coast Guard cutters.

CHEMISTS REPORT MANY DISCOVERIES SINCE DEPRESSION

Dr. Egloff Points Out Why Alcohol-Gasoline Plan Will Not Work.

The output of scientific knowledge which chemistry has placed at the disposal of industry has greatly increased during the depression, according to a summary of the proceedings of the eighty-fifth meeting of the American Chemical Society, which closed its sessions here yesterday.

The registration at the meeting broke all records for the society's semiannual gatherings, the number enrolled exceeding 2,300. The number of authors who submitted papers during the sessions was 723. Progress in practically every field of chemical science was reported. Chemists are laying the foundations for new industries and are forging new weapons for the war on disease.

Criticizing Government proposals to blend gasoline with alcohol produced from grain, Dr. Gustav Egloff, research oil chemist, declared that the farmer is chasing a mirage, which in the end will do more harm than good and will not work to his relief.

Analyses Proposal.

The Government and State proposals, he said, would make mandatory a provision that all gasoline contain at least 10 per cent alcohol. This would mean that 1,800,000,000 gallons of alcohol would be produced yearly for this purpose.

"This enormous quantity of alcohol," Dr. Egloff declared, "would add to the motorist's gasoline bill approximately $90,000,000 a year, based on the farmer receiving 25 cents a bushel for corn."

The oil refiners, the scientist said, can, if they desire, make grain alcohol from crude petroleum and can make more of it than the "combined output of all the farms in the United States." He said they could produce this alcohol cheaper than it could be done from farm products, except when corn prices are very low.

Does Not Mix Well.

A car operated with straight gasoline will go 4 per cent farther on 1 gallon than one which uses a mixture of 10 per cent alcohol, he declared.

A further disadvantage of the mixture, he said, was its tendency to separate, with the alcohol dropping to the bottom of the gasoline tank and the gasoline floating to the top.

This can be overcome with the use of any of several blending agents, he said, but their use would add approximately 2 cents per gallon to the price.

He illustrated how the plan would actually work to the disadvantage of the farmer.

Illustrates Fallacy.

"Let us take the State of Iowa for example," he said. "The gasoline consumption for 1932 was 350,000,000 gallons, of which it was estimated that one-half was consumed by the farming population. To produce enough alcohol to have a 10 per cent blend would require 14,000,000 bushels of corn, for which, with 25-cent corn yielding 15 cents net a bushel, the farmers would have netted about $2,100,000.

"The increased motor fuel bill for Iowa would have been almost $9,000,000, of which the farmer would have paid about $4,500,000. The farmer would have lost about $2,400,000 unless the increased price of the balance of the corn products would overbalance this loss."

Seaman Is Indicted In Blackmail Case

Allegedly Took Several Hundred Dollars From House Member.

The District grand jury, in its last official function before going out of office, yesterday returned an indictment charging Luther C. Sykes, 24-year-old sailor, with blackmail. The indictment alleges that Sykes obtained several hundred dollars from Representative Walter G. Andrews, of Buffalo, N. Y.

The indictment charges that on March 13 Sykes wrote a letter to Representative Andrews demanding $500. United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, who presented the case to the jury, presented only one other witness, Detective Sergt. Earl P. Hartmann.

Sykes is in the District Jail, where he is being held in lieu of a $10,000 bond. He was arrested Tuesday morning at Fifteenth street and New York avenue northwest.
